Eight Perish in Steele House Blaze

Mrs. Pearline Black shows mother's grief

STEELE (AP) — Eight died in a fire early today at their home, which a highway patrolman said "burned up before anyone arrived at the scene."

Trooper Kenneth Howell said apparatus from the Steele fire department was dispatched to the scene about two miles to the north "to cool the fire."

Killed were Gladys Lee Booth, 20; Kathy Booth, 18 months; Billy Lee Booth, 5 months; Maggie Lee Black, 15; Kathaline Black, 12; Joyce Ann Black, 8, Anita Black, 7, and Barbara Black, 14 months, a daughter of Maggie Black.

The highway patrol said they were children of Pearline Black, about 40, and her common-law husband, Roy Lee Marshall, also about 40, a farm laborer.

Marshall and his son, Robert Lee Marshall, 15, were taken to John Gaston hospital in Memphis, and are in cricital condition.

Mrs. Black and her daughter Gloria were treated in the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti and released.

Howell, who said he was investigating a traffic accident near the scene, said the fire was out of control "and almost over" when he arrived. The small wooden home, tenant house in this Southeast Missouri region, "probably would burn in 30 minutes' time" Howell said.

It was not determined how the fire started.

Tom German, Pemiscot county deputy sheriff, speculated the fire began in the cluttered attic, where there was debris and possibly faulty wiring.

Other reports were that the fire starting from stoves in the kitchen and living room.

Mrs. Black said she woke up about 3 a.m. and the "back of the house was completely afire and was spreading to the bedroom."

She yelled to the other members of the family and then jumped from a first story window to safety. The three other survivors escaped the blaze by running through the front room into the yard. Attempts to rescue the other members of the family were unsuccessful.

It was first believed seven lost their lives in the blaze but a neighbor's insistance caused authorities to check with Mrs. Black, who reported Barbara Black, her 14 month old daughter had perished.

Seven bodies were removed about 6:30 a.m. by sheriff's officers and neighbors. A witness said a crowd of about 50 had gathered at the site.

The eighth body was removed at 8 a.m.

The Steele fire department was called to cool the burned debris to allow removal of the bodies.

Six of the bodies were found in a bedroom on the north side of the house. Two others were found in a living room that had been converted to a bedroom.

The family's station wagon near the house was destroyed.

The bodies were taken to the German Funeral Home.

The house is one mile north of Steele on a gravel road off highway 61.

Funeral services are tentatively set for Sunday afternoon. It was reported this morning by Mrs. Black, that the remains of the family will possibly be buried in one casket.

Neighbors gathered from miles around this morning to view the aftermath.

South Viet Drive in Laos Runs Into Deep Trouble

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's 12-day-old drive against the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos apparently was stopped cold and in deep trouble today as the North Vietnameset launched heavy counter-offensives against both sides of the frontier.

Elements of a 9,000-man U.S. blocking force on the Vietnamese side also came under attack and a half-dozen more American helicopters flying in support of the South Vietnamese were reported shot down.

The fighting was the heaviest since the 16,000 South Vietnamese entered Laos to cut North Vietnam's principal supply network.

A South Vietnamese ranger position overlooking a main artery of the trail was overrun with heavy losses, military spokesmen said, and two ranger patrol bases nearby remained under siege fora third successive day.

An American advisor on the Vietnamese side told Associated Press photographer Rick Merron: "The rangers are holding on by the skin of their teeth."

Field reports said more than 50 Saigon troops had been killed Friday and Saturday, more than 200 wounded and 26 missing.

South Vietnamese field commanders estimated 600 North Vietnamse troops were slain under an onslaught of artillery fire and air support by U.S. fighterbombers and helicopter gunships.

The U.S. Command reported two attacks on American positions north of Khe Sanh, on the Vietnamese side of the border, and acknowledged the loss of two more helicopters. A spokesman said five Americans were killed, 14 were wounded and three were missing.

U.S. B52s struck inside South Vietnam for the first time in nearly two weeks.

The eight-jet bombers attacked a North Vietnamese buildup threatening American forces just to the south of the demilitarized zone.

In another attack in the northern sector of South Vietnam, the old imperial capital, Hue, was shelled for the first time in more than six months. South Vietnamese headquarters said three Soviet-made 100-pound rockets fell into the city and destroyed two houses, killed two civil ans and wounded seven.

Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported from the border region that less than 1,000 South Vietnamese rangers at the patrol bases two miles apart were under siege by a regiment and a half of North Vietnamese troops, estimated to number as many as 3,000 men.

Col. Nguyen Van Hiep, commander of the 1st Ranger Group, said the bases were being hammered with an unrelenting rain of 130mm and 152mm artillery fire and a "lot of small arms fire."

North Vietnamese troops surrounded one of the hills, and U.S. helicopters trying to get in to lift out South Vietnamese wounded and a wounded American crew chief came under heavy antiaircraft fire. They had to turn back.

North Vietnamese troops surrounded one of the hills but a U.S. helicopter managed to land and take off with a wounded crew chief who had been stranded there for two days.

The South Vietnamese also are in trouble because heavy anti aircraft fire and uncertain weather, often rainy with low cloud cover, are causing problems for U.S. aircraft flying resupply and fire support missions.

Two Killed in Explosion

MEMPHIS, Tenn (AP) — Two men were killed early today when an explosion ripped through an empty gasoline barge under tow on the Mississippi River south of here.

One victim was identified as David Walker, about 40, of Stevensport, Ky., master of the tow.

The second man, a deckhand, was not immediately identified.

The blast came as crewmen were battling a fire aboard one of four barges under tow by the Larry Turner, Coast Guard spokesman said.

One body was recovered from the river. The second body was found aboard the barge several hours later.

The two went around on Tower Bar shortly after the fire, but early today coast Guard cutters Kanawah, and Sycamore were working to bring the tow to shore at nearby Cow Island.

Sergeant Killed in Vietnam

Sgt. 1/C Leslie L. Karnes was killed in action in Vietnam Sunday. He was a passenger on a water craft when a mine detonated and the area came under attack by a hostile force, according to the information from the Secretary of Defense.

Karnes was a career marine with almost 19 years of active duty. He was serving his second tour in Vietnam.

He married Soon Lim in Seoul, Korea, Sept. 19, 1957.

Survivors include Mrs. Karnes, twin sons, Michael and Mark, a daughter, Sue Ann, 836 Wayne; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Karnes of 435 West Murray Lane; one brother, R Robert Karnes of Sikeston; two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Proffer of Scott City and Mrs. Devola Wilson of Baldwin, Ill.

The body will be returned to the Bill O'Guin Funeral home.

Merrick Heads Selective Service

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's new selective service director is Robert Merrick of Jefferson City.

He was appointed by the National Selective Service Headquarters and took up his new duties Monday.

Merrick, 44, is a native of Bertrand, in Southeast Missouri, but has been in Jefferson City three and one-half hears as supervisor of the motor vehicle fuel section of the Department of Revenue.

The acting director in past months, Lt. Col. Ralph McCain, will remain as assistant director, Merrick said.

Merrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Merrick of East Prairie. He graduated from Anniston high school, where he was a star basketball player. He attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau three years.

He married the former Charlene Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warren, Sr. and they are the parents of five children.

Four daughters, Christy, 20, a student at Cape State; Candice, 16, Robin, 13, and Camellia, three.

Their son, John Warren Merrick, 22, lives in Benton.

Emergency Alert Erroneously Sent

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The nation's radio and television stations were erroneously alerted today that the nation was under a state of emergency.

The false signal resulted from an error at the National Warning Center inside Cheyenne Mountain and was transmitted by the center directly onto the wires of The Associated Press and United Press International at 9:32 a.m., EST. It was canceled at 9:50 a.m.

Only the White House can order release of such an emergency notificatio . Immediately after the signal was transmitted the White House was asked what happened.

"Nothing has come from the President," a spokesman at the White House press office said.

Col. Gordon Ockenden, command director for the day of North American Air Defense Command at Cheyenne, said:

"The Saturday morning test tape that normally goes out was inadvertently replaced by an actual warning tape" at the National Warning Center.

Both NORAD and the center are located in the mountain near Colorado Springs.

Asked whether the error was a mechanical or a human one, he said he would not make any comment on that at once. He declined to elaborate further on the incident.

Ockenden said he was being besieged with calls from generals in Washington to explain what happened.

A spokesman for American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which leases wires to the news services, said the tape normally used explains the message is merely a test. The tests are run weekly, on Saturdays and Sundays.

Stations around the country ceased broadcasting, some after warning listeners the emergency shutdown was ordered by the government.

Others, waiting to check manuals or with their network headquarters, remained on the air.

Broadcast stations said the erroneous message carried the correct authenticator word "hatefulness." Under the Conelrad alert system, stations receiving an emergency warning are supposed to check manuals to verify it with a code word.

Shoplifting Followed by Six Arrests

Approximately $581 in merchandise was shoplifted from the Accent Shop on Center Street and the Classic Shop at Midtowner Shopping Center yesterday afternoon, police reported.

Police said four women and two men were apprehended at the Classic Shop and charged with the thefts. Names were unavailable but the six listed addresses in Chicago, St. Louis, and Memphis. The merchandise was recovered.

Police said the first report of shoplifting came at 2:24 p.m. yesterday from the Accent Shop. The suspects left there in a late model Cadillac and went to the Classic Shop which reported shoplifting to police at 2:39 p.m.

Woman Faces Second Charge In Shooting

NEW MADRID—A second felonious assault charge has been filed against Mrs. Louise Herion, 46, in connection with the shooting Feb. 10 at her home at 535 Main St.

The charge accuses Mrs. Herion of firing .38 revolver shots at Deputy Walter Ivy and City Officer Gene Lyles when they were called to the home after Alton Eugene "Whacker" Jackson, 33, was wounded. The first charge was filed for the injury of Jackson. Ivy and Lyles were not wounded.

She is under $5,000 bond pending preliminary hearing on the charges Tuesday.

No Evidence Of Felony in Fire Death

Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore said this morning that his office had one more statement to take from a person in the investigation to determine if criminal neglect was involved in the death of 11-year-old Timmy Lee Brooks, an invalid, Sunday in a fire while alone in his apartment.

"The preliminary feeling now is that no felony was involved and that it (the fire and death) was just an unfortunate tragic accident," Gilmore said.

John White, stepfather of the boy, was gone at the time of the blaze at 206 Dixie. On his return, White told firemen that his son was in the house. The boy's body was found on a bed.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

People have not outlived the age of romance as long as it is still possible to fool them.

Here's a special thought about reading since this is National Book Week which is being emphasized by our city library.

Famous pianist and comedian, Victor Borge, who has brought so much fun into the world, has this to say about the fun of reading aloud to your children: "What you read to children isn't important. You could read the telephone book and they wouldn't care. They'd love it. Young children, at least, don't have to understand what you read. Oh, it's fine if you can be dramatic. And if you want to read poetry that's okay by them. They'll dance and sway to it. They'll like it if you'll laugh. But even these things -- even how you read -- aren't important. What matters is that they're with you and that you're paying attention to them (and to nobody else). It's like going fishing. The fish you catch aren't as important as all the other things that go along with fishing. When you're reading to children, it's the other things that are happening between you that are really important. You gain more than you give, believe me!"

WORDSWORTH AFTER TWO CENTURIES

"Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive, But to be young was very Heaven!"

—William Wordsworth

The Most familiar portraits of Wordsworth depict him late in his long life when his hair and beard wreathed his eyes and large, arched nose like hoar frost. They make him appear to have been as ascetic as an Old Testament prophet. But the English poet, who fathered an illegitimate child in France and whose intellectual passions were based on animal-like emotions, was hardly ascetic, although he was something of a prophet. And in his own time. Wordsworth, who was born on April 7, nearly 200 years ago, is worthy of being remembered if for no other reason than the fact that he heralded a new age in the history of English literature — the Romantic period.

But his poetry is of far more than just historical value. It is some of the greatest and certainly the most influential poetry of the first half of the 19th century. In short, Wordsworth was a literary giant. That is why the Library of Congress presented a reading of the poet's work. A U. S. bicentennial tribute is fitting, for Wordsworth was perhaps just as important an influence on American letters as on English literature.

Few poets today feel any special kinship with Wordsworth. Still it's a fairly safe bet that his poetry — as traditional as it now seems — will continue to be honored as the years and centuries roll by while much of the avant-garde gimmickry that poses as poetry today will have been long forgotten. Time is an exacting critic.

A WEEK TO REMEMBER

The week of February 20 to 27 has been set aside as National Future Farmers of America Week. The theme of this observance is "FFA --- An Opportunity For Youth." The Future Farmers of America is a national organization of high school students studying vocational agriculture in our public schools. It is an educational, nonprofit, nonpolitical organization of, by and for these students. The foundation upon which it is built includes a leadership, character development, sportsmanship, cooperation, community service, thrift, scholarship, improved agriculture, organized recreation, citizenship and patriotism. The FFA itself does not make its members outstanding, but, instead, provides the opportunity for them to excel, grow and become outstanding. Young people in FFA learn the meaning of local initiative. Local FFA chapters provide the strength of the organization. In the local chapters, student officers and members develop into agricultural leaders.

As long as we have youth orgainzations such as the FFA, we may rest assured that the violence and lawlessness of the dissenters, whose only aim is destruction, will represent the acts of a minority -- and a small minority at that.

THE SIMPLE IDEA WORKS BEST

It was a long time ago that Russell Conwell made a fortune delivering a Chautauqua lecture called "Acres of Diamonds." His message was that opportunities for advancement are everywhere, and quite frequently may be found literally underfoot. The recent death of Peter S. Vosbikian at the age of 78 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, brings to mind the lesson than many times the simple idea is the best idea.

Mr. Vosbikian, to all appearances, didn't have much "going for him." A native of Armenia, he had emigrated to the United States at the age of 21. He didn't have any powerful connections or even a good command of the English language, at first, but that didn't stop him.

At the dinner table one night, Mrs. Vosbikian complained about the unpleasant task of cleaning the kitchen floor with mop and pail. Mr. Vosbikian thought about it for a moment, and then said: "I think I have a perfect mop for you." After dinner he went to his small workshop in the cellar of his house and assembled an unlikely conglomeration of items; a broom handle, a breadboard, a cookie sheet, a rubber sponge, a scrub brush and a number of nuts and bolts. Thereupon was invented an item which has been happily purchased by millions of housewives; the squeeze mop. Two thriving manufacturing firms, the Hardware and Industrial Tool Company and the Quickie Manufacturing Company were to grow from that simple idea, in turn providing jobs for hundreds of workers — to say little of making floorwashing a slightly more pleasant task than it had been before.

While many of today's inventions are developed in sophisticated laboratories, there are still many "simple" ideas waiting for an inventor.

BACK TO BILLBOARDS

At times the Missouri Legislature has shown a remarkable skill in writing non - legislation. In 1966, for example, a bill supposed to control highway billboards was deliberately written so that few billboards would be controlled. The device gave county courts power to zone roadsides commercial where advertising is permitted.

This legislation never conformed to federal standards but Washington only issued warnings until the other day, when Secretary of Transportation Volpe wrote Gov. Hearnes a letter. Mr. Volpe said time for compliance with federal standards will run out this year; then Missouri could lose up to 10 per cent of its federal highway aid funds.

Since 1966 times have changed, the Legislature has changed and the State Highway Commission has obtained the introduction of a new bill eliminating the absurd county court power to turn federal roads into billboard alleys. Of course, there are more billboards than ever, but is it worth a potential $12,000,000 loss in federal funds to keep them there? The House Roads Committee should be the first to say No.

County Superintendent of Schools Ira Denny comes forth with some rather interesting statistics if any of us happen to be around in the long -away future.

Seems that in the year 2,000, February will have two extra days, the 29th and 30th. This will keep happening every 1,000 years, because Leap Year which slides in every four years, doesn't take up enough slack.

It's bad enough now for those who have a birthday only every four years, but think about the poor souls born on February 30, 2,000. They will never have a birthday.

However, be of good cheer. They have changed George Washington's birthday from February 22 to February 15. And perhaps by the year 2,000 the world will be so computerized that everyone's birthday will come on the same Monday. That way we add another national three - day holiday and can get all of the cake baking done at one time.

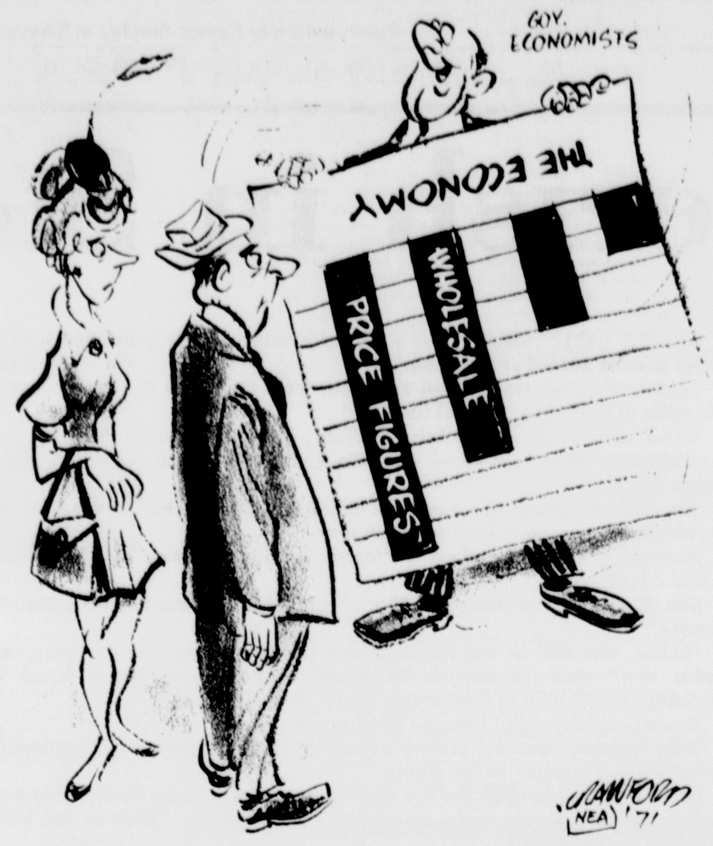
"As You Can See, It's a Turn for the Better!"



TIME FOR ACTION

Russia is building modern merchant ships at a record rate, while the U.S. Merchant Marine has been declining. But, there are signs of change. For one thing, we do have a nucleus fleet of modern merchant ships upon which to build.

Equally important is the widening recognition of the need for action. This need was well expressed by Mr. Charles F. Duchein, president of the Navy League of the United States, when he said, "Isn't it high time we stopped talking about the mess in the merchant marine and started giving a positive American touch to our crucial situation at sea? What needs to be done is to build up our maritime posture to a preeminent world position. The Soviet Union's new oceanic vision dictates a vastly accelerated build - up of our merchant fleet .... Our fast moving 20th Century industry depends increasingly on strategic materials carried from overseas in ships. The burgeoning trade along the sea lanes of the world affords the most inviting possibility for economic growth in our history. But you and I know we now carry only a fraction of even our own trade .... we are not capitalizing on the exploding lucrative world markets -- we continue to talk when positive action is called for."

The U.S. has always been a land of opportunity. Opportunity now beckons as never before in world commerce. But, U.S. -flag merchant ships are needed to open the door.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

As we swing into the 70's many club groups, as well as individuals, may be looking for fresh ways to help their fellowmen. Although the aged, the disabled and the poor receive assistance from various units of government, they still need help from their local communities.

One inspiring program that has been spreading gradually across the country is known as Meals on Wheels. The object is to feed the elderly or incapacitated who cannot prepare their own meals.

While not necessarily a poverty program, Meals on Wheels does reach the poor because in many cases it's the lack of money that makes the service necessary. And where there are people who cannot pay the small fees, the meals are provided free.

There are more than 80 MOW groups operating today. Many participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Donated Foods Program, but all depend on donations for operating costs, and each has a little different program from the others.

In Nashville, Tenn., MOW operates through the facilities of a church. Six days a week two meals (one hot and one cold) are prepared and delivered to the aged. The meals cost about 75 cents each. In addition there is a weekly bag of fresh fruit.

In Jersey City, N.J., the MOW is provided with free kitchen space, equipment and utilities by the City Housing Authority. They feed 50 to 70 people (between the ages of 60 and 90) two meals five days a week. On Fridays a heavy soup is sent as an extra meal for the weekend.

In Pittsburgh, Pa., the MOW, which was formed by the Lutheran Service Society, operates from a local church. Some 50 volunteers prepare two meals five days a week. The maximum charge is $7.50 per week, but some clients pay less or even nothing.

In other cases MOW groups work out of club houses, hospitals, community centers. Some attempt to serve meals suited to particular diets. Others have dietitians who plan special menus for the ill.

Occasionally meals are served in a cafeteria as well as on home delivery so that people who can get out have a change of scene.

The New York State Office for the Aging has provided a 3-year grant to establish a MOW program in the Yorkville section of New York City. So there are various directions to go for help if you want to start a Meals on Wheels program in your area.

It can be a happy New Decade!

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Down through the Vietnam War years, the raw facts about the fighting have gone through such a filtering and flavoring process that the public no longer trusts the official statement.

This is reflected in the large number of inquiries we received, asking what is really happening on the battlefront. We have sought the answers from our own competent and confidential sources. Here are the most newsworthy replies:

WHAT IS THE REAL PURPOSE OF THE DRIVE INTO LAOS? The aim is to cut the North Vietnamese supply line. But unfortunately, most of the supplies for the present dry season had already moved down the Ho Chi Minh trail network before the South Vietnamese struck. Intelligence reports show a heavy flow of war goods down the infiltration routes during the dry months of September, October and November. But the flow had already dwindled to a trickle before the South Vietnamese could cut it off. This would indicate that the communist forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia already had received most of the supplies that had been intended for them during the dry season.

WHAT IS THE RISK THAT THE LAOS INVASION WILL ESCALATE THE WAR? Hanoi isn't expected to mass a large force in Laos to resist the South Vietnamese operation. Allied forces, complete with waiting planes and massed artillery, are prepared to devastate any North Vietnamese force that might come into the open. The communist strategy has always been to avoid battles they might lose and wait for a chance to attack a vulnerable spot. Hanoi is more likely, therefore, to strike back elsewhere at a weak point. The best clue: communist forces already have increased the military pressure on the Royal Lao government in northern Laos.

CHINESE IN LAOS

IS RED CHINA LIKELY TO INTERVENE IN LAOS? The Red Chinese have warned that they won't remain indifferent to the South Vietnamese drive into Laos but would take "all effective measures" to aid the communist forces. In recent months, the Chinese have stepped up construction of a road that cuts across Laos almost to the Thai border. The construction crew and guard force, which formerly had numberd no more than 3,000, has now been increased to more than 15,000. The best estimate is that the road is intended as a supply line for communist guerillas, not an invasion route for Chines troops. Overt Chinese involvement in Indochina isn't anticipated.

IS THE WHITE HOUSE TELLING THE TRUTH ABOUT THE ABSENCE OF U.S. COMBAT TROOPS IN LAOS? American ground troops stopped at the Laotian border, although they are ready for action in Laos if they should be needed to help repel a North Vietnamese counterattack. CIA-led guerrilla bands of mountain tribesmen are also operating in souther Laos, assisting the South Vietnamese invaders. Technically, the American advisers aren't military men but civilians on the CIA payroll. The Army's special forces, however, have sent observation teams across the border.

IS PRESIDENT NIXON TRYING TO WIN OR TO WIND DOWN THE VIETNAM WAR? The President is seeking to turn the war over to the South Vietnamese but to leave them strong enough to defend themselves. He also wants to protect the withdrawing American troops from a possible Asian Dunkirk. He views the drive into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and Dunkirk. He views the drive into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and the bombing attacks upon North Vietnam as rear-guard action to reduce Hanoi's ability to mount an offensive. Meanwhile, the President has withdrawn almost all draftees from combat operations. Before the end of the year, he hopes to keep all Americans out of combat except for air and artillery support for the South Vietnamese.

MAFIA EXPOSE

Some of the nation's most notorious racketeers, identified in federal files as Mafia bigwigs, had been living quietly in New York's fashionable Westchester County until a gravel-voiced newspaper editor straight out of "Front Page," decided to fight them his own way.

Barney Waters, editor of the Herald Statesman, knew that Costa Nostra chieftans had settled in the Yonkers area. If they could escape prosecution, he decided, at least he could expose them to their neighbors.

Waters ordered his reporters to dig into the criminal backgrounds of the hoodlums who were living in fashionable respectability in the community. then he sent his photographers around to take pictures of their villa-style suburban homes.

For two years he battled the mobsters, winding up with a dramatic, two-week series. Even before the series began, the hoods learned of it and threatened Waters's life. The Herald Stateman's general manager, Jack Sheils, received a gruff telephone threat against the newspaper plant. Two .38 pistol shots blasted the newspaper's windows one night shattering glass in the advertising department.

During the two years, Waters got hundreds of threatening calls, four broken windshields and six different tires slashings. But through it all, the vinegary editor refused even to remove his name from the telephone directory. He told sympathetic friends: "I'm not going into hiding just for that lunch of punks."

Waters exposed such nationally-know Cosa Nostra gangsters as Vincent Rao, "Big Pat" Pagano and Frank Borelli, who lived like peaceful suburbanites in Westchester County when they weren't engaged in the narcotics, gambling, extortion and loan-shark rackets. Borelli was even a member of Water's Club.

Amazing, nothing happened Theorized Waters: "Somebody big must have passed the word to lay off for fear things would get even worse for them in the paper."

FOOTNOTE: Our own Mafia sources said publicity "spooks" the big boys worse than a prosecution. Meanwhile, the Mafia is spreading into other suburban communities. Exposes, like those of the Herals Statesman, provided the subjects are indisputable members of the crime syndicate, help to mobilize community support against organized crime.

Inside Labor

Muscle In Money: Labor Chiefs Pledge to Shift Billions To Back Drive to Unionize Nation's Banks

BAL HARBOUR, Fla.: -- Here you can lobby at the poolside, around the cabanas, in the bars, at the racetracks and on the golf links - what with labor's most powerful leaders more heavily concentrated than ever except at biennial national conventions. This is the high command. In fact, here are a series of interlocking high commands. And labor leaders do lobby other labor leaders.

At any given moment there are a score of confidential conferences or whispered conversations - some of which rock the land or even the world. There are such men as Tran quoc Buu, president of the (South) Vietnamese Confederation of Christian Labor who has traveled all the way from Saigon, and ex-cop John Cassese, eager to build a national police union across the U.S., and Charles Feinstein, head of the leather goods union desperately trying to save his organization and industry from destruction by foreign imports.

These men, and a hundred others just as colorful, are overlooked as all eyes are riveted on the building and construction union chiefs. 'Tis a pity their stories aren't told -- for these are the background "in depth" stories which sooner or later make the headlines.

One of them especially should be noted as he seeks support for his own thing -- the unionization of banks, credit unions, Blue Cross, Blue Shield and the entire Federal Reserve System.

He is Howard Coughlin, president of the 85,000 - member Office and Professional Employes Union (OPEIU), unique because it also unionizes other union headquarters.

Howard Coughlin is slowly building up a head of steam. If successful, he'll convince labor's high command to move hundreds of millions of dollars -- perhaps billions -- from one bank to another. And there are billions to be shifted.

His technique is to convince national union presidents and leaders of state federations of labor to pass resolutions at their conventions pledging his bank employes organization drive full support. This means promising to put labor's millions in unionized banks - of which there are now about a score, mostly small. But big deposits would make bigger banks.

At last year's midwinter session of labor's 35-man AFL-CIO Executive Council, whose majority of one generally is George Meany, Howard Coughlin won a resolution pledging him full support. The motion means, if implemented, that unions would deposit their own treasuries and welfare and pension funds and urge their members to deposit their savings in unionized banks.

During this past year, Mr. Coughlin and his national organizer, Arthur Lewandowski, working through their own locals. convinced 17 state federations to pass similar resolutions. These ran all the way from New York to California.

There has been no major shifting of billions of dollars, yet. But Howard Coughlin is pushing the resolution in the remaining 33 state labor bodies.

"We will continue to push in the state federations of labor which have not yet passed our resolution to get it through," says Mr. Coughlin. "Thereafter, we positively will call on the national AFL-CIO and their affiliates everywhere to make good their promise made exactly one year ago to deposit money in those banks which have been signed up by our union. Once we prove that money will be shifted, to show we can deliver, then we'll broaden our organization campaign.

"That's why we're here."

Mr. Coughlin has met with Mr. Meany who turned him over to AFL-CIO Organizing Director William Kircher. Mr. Coughlin's campaign could work - and effect billions of dollars. Or it could fall flatter than one of Tito's dinars. It's in the crucible. Like up in New Haven where the professional employes union took a swing at the Connecticut Savings Bank's 250 employes -- and lost.

There was a union certification election on Feb. 10. Backing the OPEIU was a Connecticut labor federation. It's leader, Vincent J. Sirabella, president of the Greater New Haven Central labor Council, wrote to the bank employes just before the official poll which was to determine whether they wanted to be represented by Mr. Coughlin's organization.

Mr. Sirabella said he was writing in behalf of the council's 30,000 members. Slightly optimistic, he wrote that "... after you have selected OPEIU as your union you have my guarantee that you will receive 100 per cent cooperation and support from us. This will include urging all of our affiliated local unions to deposit funds in your unionized bank ..."

Well, the OPEIU lost. Now the labor people there are preparing to pressure their members into withdrawing funds from the bank. This is the first time the technique has been used. Howard Coughlin and his allies have put it on the line. This is a new version of the old boycott tactic which George Meany is reviving. If this small bank can be pressured by this small labor council, bigger banks can be swung by bigger labor coalitions, say the union organizers whose mirage has a skyline made up of the Bank of America, Chase Manhattan and First National City of New York.

At the same time, the drive is on to convince Blue Cross and Blue Shield -- which do considerable business with unions -- to ease the way for unionization of their 35,000 employes. And the Federal Reserve's 29,000 "workers' are on the agenda. And there are 2,400 credit unions.

It's a saga which has been overlooked in the lobbies here filled with so many men of labor and political power. But should the union of professionals be able to flex the muscle which it has in labor's billions, it's a saga which will remake labor strategy.

In Defense of Women

by H. L. Mencken

FUNDAMENTAL MOTIVES

How successful such a concealment may be is well displayed by the general acceptance of the notion that women are reluctant to enter into marriage — that they have to be persuaded to it by eloquence and pertinacity, and even by a sort of intimidation. The truth is that, in a world almost divested of intelligible idealism, and hence dominated by a senseless worship of the practical, marriage offers the best career that the average woman can reasonably aspire to, and, in the case of very many women, the only one that actually offers a livelihood. What is esteemed and valuable, in our materialistic and unintelligent society, is precisely that petty practical efficiency at which men are expert, and which serves them in place of free intelligence. A woman, save she show a masculine strain that verges upon the patholigical, cannot hope to challenge men in general in this department, but it is always open to her to exchange her sexual charm for a lion's share in the earnings of one man, and this is what she almost invariably tries to do. That is to say, she tries to get a husband, for getting a husband means, in a sense, enslaving an expert, and so covering up her own lack of expertness, and escaping its consequences. Thereafter she has at least one stout line of defence against a struggle for existence in which the prospect of survival is chiefly based, not upon the talents that are typically hers, but upon those that she typically lacks. Before the average woman succumbs in this struggle, some man or other must succumb first. Thus her craft converts her handicap into an advantage.

In this security lies the most important of all the benefits that a woman attains by marriage. It is, in fact, the most important benefit that the mind can imagine, for the whole effort of the human race, under our industrial society, is concentrated upon the attainment of it. But there are other benefits, too. One of them is that increase in dignity which goes with an obvious success; the woman who has got herself a satisfactory husband, or even a highly imperfect husband, is regarded with respect by other women, and has a contemptuous patronage for those who have failed to do likewise. Again, marriage offers her the only safe opportunity, considering the levantine view of women as property which Christianity has preserved in our civilization, to obtain gratification for that powerful complex of instincts which we call the sexual, and, in particular, for the instinct of maternity. The woman who has not had a child remains incomplete, ill at ease, and more than a little ridiculous. She is in the position of a man who has never stood in battle; she has missed the most colossal experience of her sex. Moreover, a social odium goes with her loss. Other women regard her as a sort of permanent tyro, and treat her with ill-concealed disdain, and deride the very virtue which lies at the bottom of her experiential penury. There would seem to be, indeed, but small respect among women for virginity per se. They are against the woman who has got rid of hers outside marriage, not because they think she has lost anyting intrinsically valuable, but because she has made a bad bargain, and one that materially diminishes the sentimental respect for virute held by men, and hence one against the general advantage and well-being of the sex. In other words, it is a guild resentment that they feel, not a moral resentment. Women, in general, are not actively moral, nor, for that matter, noticeably modest. Every man, indeed, who is in wide practice among them is occasionally astounded and horrified to discover, on some rainy afternoon, an almost complete absence of modesty in some women of the highest respectability.

But of all things that a woman gains by marriage the most valuable is economic security. Such security, of course, is seldom absolute, but usually merely relative: the best provider among husbands may die without enough life insurance, or run off with some preposterous light of love, or become an invalid or insane, or step over the intangible and wavering line which separates business success from a prison cell. Again, a woman may be deceived: there are stray women who are credulous and sentimental, and stray men who are cunning.Yet again, a woman may make false deductions from evidence accurately before her, ineptly guessing that the clerk she marries today will be the head of the firm tomorrow, instead of merely the bookkeeper tomorrow. But on the whole it must be plain that a woman, in marrying, usually obtains for herself a reasonably secure position in that station of life to which she is accustomed. She seeks a husband, not sentimentally, but realistically; she always gives though to the economic situation; she seldom takes a chance if it is possible to avoid it. It is common for men to marry women who bring nothing to the joint capital of marriage save good looks and appearance of vivacity; it is almost unheard of for women to neglect more prosaic inquiries. Many a rich man, at least in America, marries his typist or the governess of his sister's children and is happy thereafter, but when a rare woman enters upon a comparable marriage she is commonly set down as insane, and the disaster that almost always ensues quickly confirms the diagnosis.

The economic and social advantage that women thus seek in marriage — and the seeking is visible no less in the kitchen wench who aspires to the heart of a policeman than in the fashionable flapper who looks for a husband with a Rolls-Royce — is, by a curious twist of fate, one of the underlying causes of their precarious economic condition before marriage rescues them. In a civilization which lays its greatest stress upon an uninspired and almost automatic expertness, and offers its highest rewards to the more intricate forms thereof, they suffer the disadvantage of being less capable of it than men. Part of this disadvantage, as we have seen, is congenital; their very intellecutal enterprise makes it difficult for them to become the efficient machines that men are. But part of it is also due to the fact that, with marriage always before them, coloring their every vision of the future, and holding out a steady promise of swift and complete relief, they are under no such implacable pressure as men are to acquire the sordid arts they revolt against. The time too short and the incentive too feeble. Before the woman employe of twentyone can master a tenth of the idiotic "knowledge" in the head of the male clerk of thirty, or even convince herself that it is worth mastering, she has married the head of the establishment or maybe the clerk himself, and so abandons the business. It is, indeed not until a woman has definitely put away the hope of marriage, or, at all events, admitted the possibility that she may have to do so soon or late, that she buckles down in earnest to whatever craft she practises, and makes a genuine effort to develop competence. No sane man, seeking a woman for a post requiring laborious training and unremitting diligence, would select a woman still definitely young and marriageable. To the contrary, he would choose either a woman so unattractive sexually as to be palpably incapable of snaring a man, or one so embittered by some catastrophe of amour as to be pathologically emptied of the normal aspirations of her sex.

Dogwood-Azalea Tour Set April 24-25

CHARLESTON — April 24 and 25 have been announced as the dates for Charleston's third annual Dogwood and Azalea tour, according to Dr. Lowell Nicholas, chairman of the Community Betterment committee.

In a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office Tuesday night, representatives of many of the civic clubs made tentative plans for expanding the annual tour. The Molly French Garden Club will have charge of the Information Booth and this year, to enable out of town visitors to tour the city along the route specified by the tour map, booths will be set up at both entrances to the city; one at the Junior High School and the other at the east entrance to the city, the place to be announced later. Last year visitors entering the city from the east had some difficulty in locating the arrow - marked tour route.

The YCB, under the leadership of the Rev. Justin Monaghan, will operate a snocone, popcorn and cotton candy concession stand. All of the acitvity will take place at the Rolwing Park and the Marshall lots on East Cypress street, where the tour will end. Approximately 50 artists have accepted invitations to participate in the clothesline art show. The Auxiliary Wives will have pony rides for children this year. The Boy Scouts will have a hamburger and hot dog concession and the Mississippi County Historical Society will have a bake sale concession.

The pony - pulling contest will be held again this year under the sponsorship of Charlie Tinsley. The date and time for this event will be announced later.

Antique Car Clubs from all over the district have signified their intention to lead the tour through the city, ending at the Rolwing Park where the cars will remain parked throughout the afternoon Sunday on display.

Another attraction this year will be a dog show which will feature dogs of all varieties. The judging on the dog show will not be by pedigree but by such different categories as the largest dog, the smallest dog, the dog with the longest tail, the shortest hair, the longest hair etc.

Dr. Nicholas stated that the committee has many other entertainers tentatively scheduled and they will be announced as soon as they are confirmed.

There will be entertainment throughout the afternoon and it is hoped that the crowds will plan to stay at the park and eat their lunch there.

Last year Charleston hosted approximately 3,000 visitors for the annual tour and, Dr. Nicholas stated, the committee feels that the announcement of the dates of the tour at this time will avoid conflicting engagements.

Women's news

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) -- Housewives boiling mad over what they charged was luke -warm water service brought corroded cooking utensils and fouled humidfiers Monday to a state hearing on a rate increase requested by the Missouri Cities Water Co. of Mexico, Mo.

About 100 anti - increase customers of the water company attended the Missouri Public Service Commission hearing, which continues today.

Despite the presentations of the housewives, engineer J.C. Stephens of Columbia testified the mineral level in the company's water is well below the maximum allowed by the State Division of Health.

In answer to opponents, a company official testified that Missouri Cities has spent $1.2 million over the past three years to provide an adequate water supply.

The Public Service Commission rejected a rate increase application a year ago. Under the present application, the company would receive an additional $51,00 a year in water revenue and $46,000 a year from sewer service.

Self-protection, Working Girls

Dear Ann Landers: I am a working girl who lives alone. Like many other such girls I am deeply concerned about the increase in muggings, assaults, rapes, burglaries, and murders. A friend who lives in California sent me an informative mailing which was put out by Bruce Eastley, Deputy Marshall of Sacramento County. I have condensed the pieces and hope you consider it worth printing. I know of no better way to get this information before the eyes of millions of women.

"Criminal activity is based on two factors. First, the desire to commit a crime. Second, the opportunity. Most of us can do very little about a criminal's desire. Opportunity, however, can be eliminated or dimished if one is alert and cautious. People who are not alert and cautious set themselves up as victims. Here are some practical suggestions that wil reduce the single woman's chances for being victimized:

"When you leave your apartment or home and plan to return after dark, leave a light burning. Darkness is an advertisement that no one is at home. If you leave for dinner, turn on the TV or stereo. Electricity is cheap compared to a break-in.

"Never leave a key under a doormat, over the doorway or in the mailbox. An astonishing number of homes have been burglarized by amateurs who didn't have to break in. They knew where to find the key.

"If you are going on vacation, discontinue the milk and newspaper deliveries. Ask a friend to pick up your mail. Arrange to have the lawn kept up.

"Unless you are proficient at using a gun it is best NOT to have one. Any weapon can be used against you by an assailant. Chances are good that he is far more experienced with guns than you are. Moreover, if he sees your gun he may use his. More victims are shot by intruders than the other way around." ---Daily Reader

Dear Daily: Thank you for sharing this information with my readers. You can be sure millions of women are smarter now than before they read it.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope my letter helps others who have the same sickness I am not getting over. It started as a small case of suspicion, then it grew to insane jealousy. Finally I became so distrustful of my wife that I began to imagine all sorts of things. It got so bad I couldn't find a minute's peace. I found myself checking the mileage on her car, looking for tread marks in the driveway, rummaging through the garbage for letters or notes. I measured the liquor in the bottles and kept records. I was up every night listening for the back door to open. I was sure my wife was entertaining a lover while I slept.

What makes all this so hideous is that my wife is a fine person. I had no reason to doubt her. Three months ago she gave me a choice -- either pack up and get out of the house or go to a psychiatrist. She said my accusations and continual checking were turning her into a nervous wreck.

Well, Ann, I'm in therapy now and getting well. I feel like the luckiest man alive. What makes it so frightening is that my crazy ideas seemed logical at the time. There must be others who are suffering from this same sickness, so please print this letter for them. It might help. ----Anytown, U.S.A.

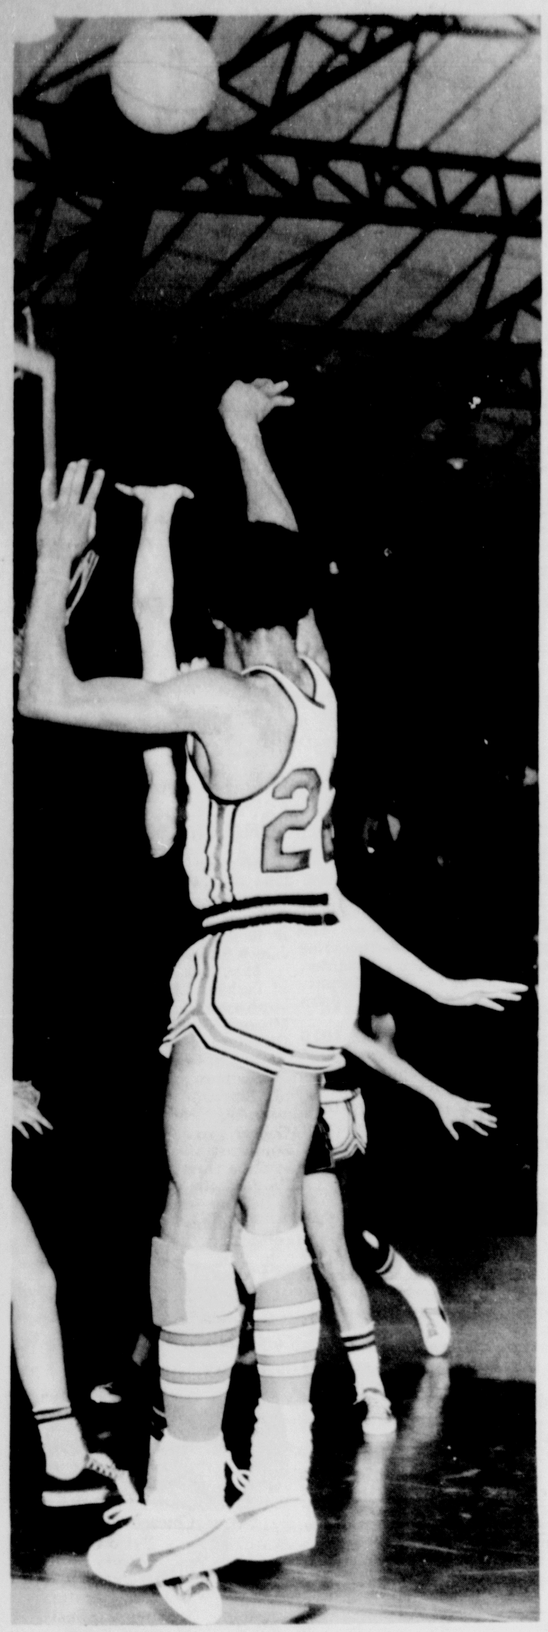
King Leads Comeback



UNDREA WEST, (22) shows the form he used in popping in 19 points to share high game honors with Lee King and lead the SHS Bulldog victory (65—59) over Cape Girardeau Central.

Sikeston fans never should have worried about Friday night's big basketball game with Cape Girardeau Central --- After all -- Lee king, who seemingly thrives on pressure, is still around.

The 5-11 SHS junior guard was at his season's best. He rallied coach N. P. McDaniel's Bulldogs to a 65-59 triumph over the Cape high school Tigers.

The win maintained Sikeston's hold on second place in the SEMO conference and boasted its season mark to 9-8 and 4-1 in the league.

It was his second half scoring leadership, especially his eight points in the fourth quarter, that turned the tables on the highly favored visitors, who led most of the game and held as much as a 12-point advantage at time.

King wasn't the sole hero of the come- from-behind victory. Undra West contributed 19 points, 13 in the second half, while Sam Tucker and Herman Prince headed the rebounding.

"It was an all out team effort, " Coach McDaniel noted. "we've come a long way since Christmas."

The Bulldog cagers struggled in the first half, falling back, 20-15, in the opening eight minutes. They had trouble with the Bengals' zone press and 1-3-1 zone defense, not to mention combating the height advantage thee visitors possessed.

It wasn't until the final eight minutes that the Dogs began to click. Cape seemed to tire under the early pace it had set and the Dogs took full advantage of the situation, waltzing through the press and speeding down floor for fast break buckets that turned the table along with the great rebounding effort put forth by Tucker and Prince.

SHS began to press in the second half and quickly began to run down the visitors.

Cape managed only two field goals and one free throw in that final quarter. The Dogs put in seven two pointers and five charity shots.

Two games remain on the Big Red schedule testing Poplar Bluff Wednesday and rounding out the season action against Perryville Friday night.

B- GAME CAPE CENTRAL

The Bengals roared ahead in the fourth to edge the SHS B team, 55-40, and drop Coach Nickel's cagers toward the cellar of the SEMO conference standings. Cape took a 17-6 advantage in the final period to post the win.

David Daye had 20 points to head the Tigers victory while John Crouthers totaled 15 to head the SHS offense.

LEE KING (white uniform) displays the form that got him 19 points in Tuesday night's 65—59 Sikeston victory over Cape Girardeau Central. King led a big second half surge in the SEMO conference clash.

Pierce Leads Charleston Win

ORAN——Charleston used a last quarter blitz to run away from the Eagles here Friday night, 82—56.

Coach David Bone's Oran Eagles came off a tough game Thursday night with the Parma Pirates to take on the highly rated Bluejays, but were unable to stay with the fast runners from Charleston, but few teams have been able to this year.

Oran made a game of it for three quarters as Charleston led 22—20 after the first quarter. The Bluejays widened their lead in the second period to five points to lead 38—33 at halftime. Oran vainly tried to stay with the Bluejays in the third period with Charleston taking a 54—46 lead. The

The fourth period was the clincher as Charleston poured it on to the tune of 28—10 to take the victory and up their record to 22—1 for the season.

Otis Burley led the Eagles with 19 points, Mike LeGrand had 16.

Eric Pierce popped 25 for the Bluejays. Usually high scoring Henry Hall was held to 11 by the Eagles tough defense.

Charleston ran their B team record to 31-0 with a easy 79-35 win over the junior Eagles. Doug Roberts had 12 for the Eagles and Gene Rogers hit 16 for the Bluejays.

Oran plays in the Bell City Regional Feb. 22.

Raiders Seeded First

Poplar Bluff has been seeded No 1 in the Region 16 (Missouri) eastern division junior college basketball tournament which will be played March 3-6 at Florissant Valley Community College.

Three Rivers, 16-8 for the season, has clinched the title in the Missouri Junior College Athletic Conference with a 7-2 mark. It has one league game remaining.

Mineral Areal College of Flat River was seeded second and Forest Park Community College and Meramec Community College, the defending eastern division champion, share the No. 3 seed.

In first-round games March 3, Three Rivers will meet East Central College of Union and Meramec will play Jefferson College of Hillsboro.

In games March 4, Mineral Area will face St. Louis Baptist and Forest Park will play Florissant Valley Community College.

The eastern division winner and western division champion will play a best-of-three series for the Region 16 title.

Cardinals Slip Past Bell City

BELL CITY———The Woodland Cardinals won a narrow basketball victory over the Cubs Friday night 59—57.

The game was closely played in four quarters. Neither team was able to build up a big lead.

Bell City led at the half, 26—24. Woodland won the game in the third period as it overcame a two-point lead to take a seven-point lead. Bell City tried to come back in the final but it wasn't enough. Time ran out.

Woodland enters the Fredericktown regional.

Bell City took the B game 38—36.

VALLE BOWS

STE. GENEVIEVE——In a game that will be replayed at Fredericktown Monday night the Dragons of Ste. Geneivieve downed the Warriors of Valle in a 51 to 50 upset. Both squads will meet again Monday night in first round action of the Fredericktown Regional at 6 p.m.

This was the fifth victory of the season for the Dragons. They used a pressure defense to force the Valle squad into floor mistakes then capitalized on their opportunities.

Valle jumped to a 14 to 9 first quarter bulge and lengthened it in the second quarter going into the half with a 26 to 20 margin.

The last half proved to be the downfall of the Warriors. The Dragons came out on fire. Slowly the Ste. Geneivieve squad whittled on the Valle lead until it claimed the victory with a strong fourth quarter, which netted it 19 points while hold the Warriors to 14.

Scoring in double figures for the Dragons were Ron Bollinger with 13 and Mike Williams with 19 points. Valle was led by the 21 points of Mike Hess and the 12 of Mark Winters.

Junior varsity action was a double victory for Ste. Geneiveve as the Dragons downed Valle 52 to 47 in another close contest.

SATURDAY'S SCHEDULE

BELL CITY S REGIONAL (AT BELL CITY)
Leopold vs. Bell City (7:00)
Oak Ridge vs. St. Vincent (8:30)

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Bert Greene of the United States shot a five-under-par 67 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 277 to win the Lagartos International Open Golf Tournament.

Green cruised in two strokes over runnerup Rogelio Gonzalez of Columbia, who had a 71 for a 279.

Veteran Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, who was the firstround leader, wound up third witt a 280 after carding a 72 Sunday.

Hayti Eludes Upset

HAYTI-- The first basketball loss of the season for Coach Bill Beck's Indians almost came at their homecoming. They had to post strong second and third quarters to remain in the contest then the game wasn't a shoo -in. Hayti won it 68 to 67 in one overtime to finish the regular season 24-0.

The Lilbourn Panthers seeded third in the Gideon regional made some of their future opponents sit up and take notice as the Panthers seemed to be more capable of withstanding pressure in games toward the end of the season and have strengthened for the regional.

Playing the highly rated Hayti squad basket for basket Lilbourn battled Hayti to a 18 to 18 first quarter deadlock.

In the second quarter Hayti began to pull slowly away from the Panthers, taking a 31 to 29 bulge at the half.

Coach Beck must have given his players extra incentive. They strengthened their mastery over the Panthers and increased their lead to seven points, taking a 50 to 43 bulge into the fourth quarter.

The Panthers were not about to give up without more of a battle and fought back to send the game into overtime. The score was knotted 61 to 61 at the close of regular play. In the final three minutes of overtime, Hayti outscored Lilbourn 7 to 6, thus earning the right to take home a rather shaky 68 to 67 victory.

This was the 24th victory of the season for Hayti. It is one of the elite in Missouri undefeated through regular season play.

Monday Hayti, seeded first in the Gideon M regional, puts its unblemished record on the line against Portageville in its first round clash at 5:30. Lilbourn, seeded third in the same tourney at Hayti, may get another shot at Hayti in the finals, but first it has to win quarter - final and semi - final games. In first round action Lilbourn drew a bye.

Braves Topple Rebs, 73-71

SCOTT CENTRAL — Scott Central, a team seeded first in the Bell City regional, and Richland, seeded number one in the Bloomfield regional clashed in a classic battle Friday night.- Scott Central took the homecoming victory 73 to 71 in an overtime period.

The Richland Rebels, playing without ace scorer and rebounder John Sims fell behind in the first quarter of play 13 to 9 and appeared to be headed for a route as they went into half time trailing 26 to 19.

The Rebesl, however, were not through for the night. They came out in the third quarter to drill 31 points play while holding the Braves to 22. The Rebels led at the end of third period, 50 to 48.

In the last frame Scott Central outscored the Rebels 21 to 19 to send the game into overtime. With 20 seconds showing on the clock Rebel guard Norman Cole dribbled on his end of the court waiting for the good shot but the good shot didn't come and a desperation shot failed and the game was tied 69-69 at the close of regulation play. The overtime was close with Scott Central taking gaining the advantage with a 4 to 2 mark in overtime action to record the victory. Scoring the winning points for Scott Central in the overtime period were Denny Alcorn and former Richland ballplayer David Pobst with two points each in the overtime.

The scoring pace of the Scott Central Braves was set by Denny Alcorn with 21, John Fort with 18 and David Pobst, with 14. All of Pobst's points came in the second half.

Richland was led by the 28 points of Norman Cole, who also claimed high game scoring honors and Steve Kinder and Dennis Sims who netted 15 and 14 points respectively.

Next week both squads place their number one seeds on the line in tournament action.

The junior varsity contest was claimed by Scott Central also with a 66 to 49 victory over the JV Rebels. Thus the new homcoming queen, Norma Peet regined over a perfect night as both Scott Central teams claimed homcoming honors.

Karen Mainord

Eagles Honor Queen

EAST PRAIRIE——Miss Karen Mainord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Mainord and a senior in the East Prairie high school, was crowned basketball homecoming queen Thursday night between games of the Illmo-Scott City Rams and the Eagles.

The Eagles defeated the Rams 86 to 71 in the A game and lost the B contest, 68-66.

Lesley Orr and Criag Bennett were the crown and gift bearers.

Miss Mainord has been a majorette for the Marching Eagles — three years and is a member of the band and choir. She plans to attend Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau next fall.

Parents of basketball players and cheerleaders were guests Thursday night and were introduced during the halftime.

Dogs Surprise Lions

GIDEON -- The Gideon Bulldogs got the Lions of Senath - Hornersville on their home court and burnt the basketball nets for a total of 61 points while holding the visiting squad to 55 markers recording a big upset and picked up some needed momentum for next week's M Tourney.

The Bulldogs led all the way and were threatened only once in the contest that coming in the third quarter when the Lions made their last bid for the victory outscoring them in that quarter, 17 to 14. The game started out the way it ended with Gideon leading 12 to 8 at the close of the first quarter.

The second quarter was all Giedon. The Bulldogs seemed headed for a sure rout over the Lions. The Bulldogs logged 15 points in their second frame while Senath was only able to hit 11.

The half was 27 to 19 in favor of the Bulldogs.

Third quarter action saw the Lions made a charge at the eight - point Bulldog lead but their effort only shaved three points from the lead and Senath went into the fourth quarter trailing five points, 41 to 36. Last quarter of play was the doom of the Lions. They netted 19 points in a fantastic scoring barrage.

The Bulldogs were not to be outdone and pumped in 20 points to their column. The Gideon scoring pace was set by Ricky Whitehead and Mike Lester, who netted 18 points each. The Senath -H'ville squad was paced by the scoring of sophomore Herman Brown with 21.

Next week when the Gideon regional starts these squads may both have a shot at one another again as Senath is seeded 5th and Gideon is seeded 8th. Both teams drew first round byes.

In junior varsity action Senath at least recorded one victory, a 38 to 20 decision over the JV Bulldogs.

Regional Tipoff Tonight

BELL CITY——Missouri's single elimination state high school basketball tournament gets its start in Class S tonight at Bell City, where two games are on tap to begin a long week of elimination, which will send one team into the state tournament bracket a week from Monday night.

Southeast Missouri's Class S and M regional action gets into full swing Monday night with action set at each of the three M sites and four S regionals.

The four schools, which will compete in opening round games, are among the 220 S teams across the state which will vie for the championship, which will be decided at the Multi—Purpose Building on the University of Missouri campus at Rolla.

Because of distance problems several regionals are split with first and second round games at separate sites.

That's the case at Bell City, where part of its first and seond round action will be at Holcomb with the semi-finals and finals set on the Cubs' hardwoods. The final four teams, two from each site will converge at Bell City for the final rounds with the eventual champion advancing to first round state action at Poplar Bluff a week from Monday.

Tipping things off tonight will be nonseeded quintets vieing to enter the Bell City bracket, which has the brunt of the 18 teams scheduled at its site. Leopold and Bell City tangle in the opener and Oak Ridge goes against St. Vincent in the nightcap.

The basketball will really start flying and the nets swaying Monday when action picks up, including games at each of the district's M and S regional sites.

A 17-game schedule is set Monday and a 10-game card on tap for Tuesday in first round action. Two-hundred and nine teams will be compete across the state for the M honors, with 35 of those in the SEMO district.

Class M competition will wind up at Brewer Field House in Columbia two weeks from tonight. Hermann is the defending champ and is expected to be among the four finalists which converge in Tiger Town.

New Haven, a quarterfinal winner over Matthews in last season's class S tournament, is the defending titlist.

Southeast Missouri entries failed to advance no farther than quarterfinal round for the first time in four seasons.

Raytown South finished with 26 straight victories to capture the class L state basketball championship. New Haven won its fifth Class S championship since 1967, and Hermann became the 12 unbeaten state champion in Missouri history with a triumph in the class M tournament. There were the highlights of the 1970 basketball tournament, which were played at three different sites.

Raytown South defeated Kansas City Rockhurst 68—65, in overtime for the Class L state title. It was the first all—Kansas City final since 1930 when KC Central defeated KC East, 13—11. Hermann finished 33—0 and won the class M title with a 42—36 victory over St. Louis Lutheran South, a 65—60 winner over Southeast Missouri Representative Dexter, playing before 5,500 fans at the University of Missouri Brewer Fieldhouse.

New Haven, a quarterfinal round victor (73—70) over SEMO's Matthews Pirates, won the class S title with a 79—69 triumph over Jameson in a game played at the University of Missouri campus at Rolla.

The victories by New Haven and Hermann marked the first time in state history that two teams from the same conference had won respective state championships. The two teams are only 15 miles apart. Hermann had finished as the third place team in M for the 1968-69 season.

Cape Girardeau Central lost in first round L action 74—72 to Herculaneum, who bowed in quarterfinal round play to Lindbergh, 77—54.

Matthews won over Van Buren 70—62 in first round S action last season and Dexter topped New Madrid 50—47 in first round play.

Fields Leads TRJC

POPLAR BLUFF — Three Rivers Junior College raced to its 16th victory of the season handing the visiting cagers, Paducah Community College, a 111 to 95 setback Thursday.

Coach Bess, TRJC head coach, said he was proud and that the game was an all out team effort of the Raiders.

Earlier this season the Raiders lost to the Paducah cagers in Paducah, 101 to 83, and this game was sweet revenge.

In the first meeting Roy Fields, the big workhorse for the Raiders was not playing. Roy was possibly the deciding factor in the TRJC victory as the big man scored 26 points and grabbed 20 rebounds.

Trailing most of the first half Three Rivers managed to tie the game. The score was knotted 46 to 46 at the half.

Coach Bess must have fired up his squad. The Raiders literally exploded in the second half, pumping in 65 points in the last half while the Paducah quintet was only able to manage 49.

Leading the way for the Raiders was a trio of 20 point totals headed by Roy fields with 26 points and 20 rebounds, Larry Lawerence with 20 markers, and Leonard Bishop's 20. John Johnson added 14 points and 10 rebounds and Paul Hale Contributed 11.

TRJC seemed to be sharpening up its guns for the region 16 tourney to be played March 3-6 at Florissant Valley Community College. Three Rivers has clinced their conference witha 7-2 mark and has one league game remaining.

The Raiders are seeded number one in this affair.

This Saturday TRJC travels to Florrisant Valley Community College for what could be a rough game. The Paducah squad were paced by Burfor with 26 and Hendrix with 24 points.

Sophomores Lead RHS

RISCO -- The Golden tigers of Coach Randy Benson flexed their muscles for the Bell City regional with a sound 83 to 55 basketball triumph over the Cooter Wildcats Friday night.

It seems as if the winning streak of Coach Bensons' Tigers coincides with the development of his fantastic sophomores, Welton Bates, Phil Swiney and Randy Stobaugh.

Risco led throughout the encounter but the decisive element in its victory was a full court press in the second quarter that saw the Tigers outscore the Wildcats, 23 to 7.

From the second quarter on Cooter was fighting a losing battle as the Risco five were determined to break .500 ball before entering the Bell City regional in which they are seeded fourth and face Southland in first round action Monday at 8:30 p.m. at Holcomb.

Setting the scoring pace for the Risco Tigers was Elton Bates with 17 and John Bunting with 21, also teammate Randy Terry with 16 points. Cooter was led by the 19 points of Lynn.

In the junior varsity tilt Cooter won 53 to 47.

Tigers Surprise NM Tribe

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Tigers of Coach Buddy James served notice Friday night that they were going to have to be reckoned with in the Gideon basketball regional. They beat the second seeded New Madrid Indians 64-61. Caruthersville is seeded sixth.

The Tigers jumped out in front in the first period, 14-10, but the Indians came roaring back to lead at the half, 28-27. New Madrid looked as if it was going to have an easy game from the half on as it increased the lead to 49-45 after three periods.

The Indians let the game slip from their clutches in the final period. The Tigers scored 19 points to 12 for the Indians.

Mark Baker was held to 15 points for the game. Joe Cagle led Caruthersville with 15.

Caruthersville won the B game 67-57. Dennis Beard hit 13 for the junior Tigers. Sims had 26 for New Madrid.

Portageville Tops DC-7

PORTAGEVILLE -- Coach Bob Kelso's Bulldogs won a big victory here Friday night over the Delta C-7 Chargers, 58-51.

Delta C-7 had just recently played the giant killer by knocking off highly favored Lilbourn in a regular season game. Delta C-7 took the first period 14-12 as neither team was able to gain any headway over the other. The Chargers widened their margin in the second quarter to take a 29-23 halftime lead.

Portageville really came on strong in the third period as they took a 19-9 advantage. This quarter is what killed the Delta C-7 effort as they were never able to overcome the lead. Portageville now stands at 5-12 for the season.

Thomas Minnis was high for the Bulldogs with 18. Paul Scott led the Chargers with 22.

Delta C-7 took the B game 56 -42 with Young scoring 18. Paul Meadows hit 16 for the junior Bulldogs.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Patriots announced Sunday their season ticket sale had gone over the 33,000 mark for the 1971 National Football League campaign.

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes

The amateur prognosticator missed on some big ones for the last time during the basketball regular season but still came out with 8—11 for 72 per cent.

The three missed were big ones so we can be excused. Not many people could have guessed the outcome.

We ended up with 222 out of 258 calls so we must know a little about the game.

It has been a great season for the fans and the players. By the end of next week the season will have closed for most of the teams. Even if they didn't win they have had fun playing the game.

We'll see you next season and perhaps see some of you at the regionals.

Mustangs Struggle

CLARKTON———North Pemiscot took a 65—57 win over the Reindeer here Friday night.

The Mustangs ran up an early lead, 15—11, after the first quarter and took a 33—26 lead into the dressing room at the half.

Clarkton used the press to fight back and tie the game 50—50 at the end of the third period.

It looked as if the Reindeer were going to pull off an upset, but it never materialized as North Pemiscot pulled ahead with 2:30 left and took the victory.

Bobby McColloch hit 12 points to lead the Mustangs to victory. Phil DeLong scored 22 for Clarkton.

North Pemiscot is 19—6 for the season.

Clarkton is 1—19. The Reindeer have lost 12 of those games by eight points or less. Clarkton plays Matthews in the Holcomb Regional Feb. 23.

North Pemiscot won the junior contest 57—38 Cockrell hit 17, Gooden 18, John Maddox hit 13 for Clarkton.

Fungicide Ban Review Sought

WASHINGTON (KAP) — The Supreme Court has been asked to review a case involving authority of federal officials to ban a seed-treating compound containing mercury.

A committee for an area youth fair met Monday, at the PCA office. From left Dave Kelley, area livestock specialist, Ken Williams, Sikeston PCA, Ellot Rafferty, Charleston, Mrs. Jewell Moore, Oran, Mrs. Mark Rowling, Charleston, Mrs. Paul Cummings, Risco, Bill Purnell, Charleston. Standing, Carroll Montgomery, New Madrid, and Peter Myers. This committee plans to develop a fair in Sikeston in August.

The review was asked by two firms which manufacture and distribute several fungicides, known as Panogen, used by farmers to treat seed grain to control fungus diseases.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin and other USDA officials have been named defendants since they, at the time, were charged with enforcing the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. Enforcement of this act later was transferred to the new Environmental Protection Agency.

Hardin canceled registration of the fungicide Feb. 18, 1970, after a tragedy at Alamagordo, N.M., in which several persons suffered injuries.

In the fall of 1969 a hog raiser at Alamogordo fed to 17 hogs some waste grain products contaminated with screenings from seed which had been treated with a fungicide containing mercury.

When one of the hogs became ills, the farmer butchered it. Members of the hog raiser's family ate the pork and became ill; three suffered injury from mercury poisoning.

Hardin canceled registration of Panogen, which in effect banned its distribution and sale.

Nor-Am Agricultural Products, Inc., and Morton International, Inc., which manufacture and distribute Panogen, filed suit to enjoin Hardin from enforcing his order. They won their case in U.S. District Court in the Northern District of Illinois but subsequently lost in the appeals court in Chicago which, on a 4-2 division, reversed the lower court and set aside the injunction.

Asking a Supreme Court review, the two companies contend the District Court had correctly held that they would suffer irreparable injury under Hardin's order. The firms placed their loss at $40,000 a day.

They argued that Panogen has been used as a fungicide since 1949, had benefitted many farmers and, with the possible exception of the Alamagordo case, had not caused permanent injury to anyone.

They said the products were properly labeled and carried prominent warnings that they contained poison, should not be swallowed or inhaled and that seed treated with the gungicide should not be used for feed, food or oil.

86 Participate In Program of Insect Control

PORTAGEVILLE — Eighty-six Missouri Bootheel farmers participated in the 1970 cotton insect scouting program supervised by Area Extension Agriculturist W. F. James. Most of these farmers have been in the program since its beginning 15 years ago.

Last year more than one third of the 11,103 scouted acres needed spraying for insect control. The weekly reports made by seven scouts during last year's program showed insects present in all scouted fields. The numbers of harmful insects present occurred only in a few fields.

College students from the cotton producing counties are employed and trained by the supervisor and assigned to groups of farmers in a particular area.

Applications for participating in the program are available at cotton gins and at University of Missouri Extension Centers in Kennett, Caruthersville, New Madrid, Charleston, Benton, Bloomfield and Delta Center, Portageville.

Time to Knock Pests Out of Pecan Orchard

PORTAGEVILLE—The obscure scale, a tiny slow moving insect that sucks the sap [illegible] trees, [illegible] the yield and quality of pecans at harvest time.

Now, while trees are dormant, is the time to get set to knock these pests out of the pecan orchard. The nature of scale insects is so peculiar that they may not even be recognized [illegible] they hatch from eggs in the spring and summer and are at this point called crawlers. These crawlers move about for a short time, settle down, insert their beaks into the bark and begin to suck sap from the tree. They form a hard covering over their bodies and never work again.

The greatest injury comes from the gradual killing of branches less than 3 inches in diameter. The slow progressive killing of branches reduces the number of fruiting shoots and weakens the tree, making it subject to attack by other insects and diseases. While lowered yields and dead limbs are the first symptoms, with heavy infestations and invasion by other insects and diseases the final result may be the death of the tree.

All scale insects can be controlled. The surest and probably the least expensive is by applying a dormant oil. If this is to be done this year it should be applied as soon as possible on a sunny day with temperatures above freezing. This oil should be mixed to a 3% solution with water and applied to the trees with a high pressure sprayer (400—600 lbs. per square inch) that will deliver 20 to 30 gallons or more per minute. Complete coverage is essential if good control is to be accomplished!! Spray the trees a section or limb at a time and don't forget, a few branches missed will mean reinfestation of the entire tree. This spray should not be applied after buds begin to show green. A good job should eradicate the scale insects from the orchard in not more than two seasons.

A—It stems from the fact that the signature of John Hancock was the first signature placed on the Declaration of Independence.

Q—How many stars can an average person see on a clear night without optical aid?

A—About 4,000, under ideal conditions.

Q—Who is presently considered the world's master [illegible]?

A—Pablo Casals.

ARCHIE McCOY and his problem: Too many pigs.

Pig Disposal Not An Easy Maneuver

Archie V. McCoy, a farmer on route one, has had his share in raising and disposing of pigs in a depressed market.

Archie said: "if I can't sell them, I'll give them away," and that's just what he did, "but I soon found out no one would come and get them. I had nine to dispose of."

He then decided to try another chance at selling them. The farmer said: "I did do a little better, at least I received enough money to pay for the gas I was out to move them out of the barn.

"This was not the end of my dealings. The next morning I thought my work was over, but when I went to the barn, I heard a commotion, and looked like a hundred little pigs — 23 were new additions, with the two I had left the day before, all from two sows."

How does one account for the sudden increase is still somewhat of a shock to McCoy. His last comment was "anyone who wishes for pigs by the dozens notify me at Archie's Wholesale Pigs."

On The Fence Row

By Tom Brown

BLOOMFIELD—Crop rotation is an important crop production practice in cropping systems commonly found in our area. Relatively little emphasis has been devoted to rotation during recent years. Observations and experiences of recent years indicate that it would pay farmers to increase their use of rotation in the cropping systems involving cotton, corn, and soybeans commonly found in this area, however.

Generally speaking, crop rotation would probably pay the highest dividend on soybeans. That diseases take a heavy toll of soybean profits indicated by the following summary showing losses that might be expected from various soybean diseases which commonly occur in this area: Bacterial Pustule, 3.25 percent; Bacterial Blight, 3.00 percent; Phytophthora Root Rot, 3.00 percent; Brown Stem Rot, 2.75 percent; Bud Blight, 1.75 percent; Bud and Stem Blight, 1.50 percent; Downy Mildew, 1.50 percent; Stem Canker, 1.00 percent; Brown Spot, 1.00 percent; and Purple Seed Stain, 0.25 percent.

Crop rotation is an important practice in the prevention and control of soybean diseases. A number of these diseases live from one crop season to another in crop residues. When we grown soybeans on the same field year after year, the disease infestation continues to build up. Rotating beans with un-related crops will stop this build-up and thereby help to get rid of or reduce disease infestations.

The average bean yield produced in Hancock County, N.C. in 1959 was 17.0 bushels per acre. As results indicate, rotating land from soybeans to a non-host crop for two to three years will facilitate the production of near normal soybean yields on cyst nematode infested land. Likewise, it will assist in the prevention of a build-up in cyst nematode infestation.

A third benefit of crop rotation in soybean production is that it facilitates more efficient fertilization of soybeans. Results of research and actual farm experience has shown that returns are significantly higher from a rotation of soybeans with other crops including cotton, corn, and small grain in which case the other crops are well fertilized and followed by soybeans to which no fertilizer is applied compared to the production of soybeans on the same land every year with the fertilizer applied directly to the soybeans. Research results also indicate that bean yields can also be built up significantly higher where the rotation plans is followed compared to the plan of producing soybeans every year.

Disease also take a heavy toll of cotton profits as indicated by the results of a Cotton Disease Council survey of diseases affecting the cotton crop throughout the Cotton Belt and extent of the loss caused by each as follows: seedling diseases, 25 percent; Bacterial Blight, 14 percent; Root Knot Nematode, 10 percent; Boll Rot, 10 percent; Fusarium Wilt, 8 percent; Root Rot, 7 percent; Anthracnose Boll Rot and Verticillium Wilt, 3 percent; and Accochyta Blight, 1 percent. Just as in the case with soybeans, many of the diseases live from one season to another on the crop residues in the soil. Unless cotton is rotated with other crops the disease infestation continues to build up and losses continue to increase. Crop rotation will help to prevent or control a number of these diseases including Fusariun Wilt, Verticillium Wilt, Bacterial Blight, Ascochyta Blight, Root Rot, Boll Rot, and Root Knot Nematodes.

Generally speaking, crop rotation has less effect in reducing corn diseases than those of cotton or soybeans. It has been suggested as a control measure for certain corn diseases, however, disregarding any benefit rotation may be to corn, however, it is still important that corn by included in the rotation program to facilitate the increased use of this practice for soybeans and cotton.

In spite of the increase of crop diseases including particularly those of soybeans and cotton, many farmers do not recognize the nature and extent of damage caused by them. Consequently, the use of crop rotation to stop the increased build-up and resulting damages caused by these diseases would seem to be very important.

Bayless Taylor Heads Fish Farmers

DEXTER — The Southeast Missouri Fish Farmers Association met Tuesday night and adopted their constitution, set dues schedules, and elected officers.

The association will attempt to strengthen fish farmers' position in buying and selling.

Bayless Taylor, Dexter, was selected president.

Other officers are Ted Streete, Caruthersville, vice president; Bill Flowers, Dexter, secretary; and A. C. Story, Wolf Island, treasurer.

About 40 fish farmers attended the meeting in the Civic Center.

Bob Smith of the Conservation Commission in Jefferson City told of new traps for muskrats, beavers and turtles.

Smith explained new trapping regulations that might affect fish farmers.

Membership fees in the organization were set at $10 per year. It plans to hold at least two meetings each year.

Crop Production To Be Discussed

GRAY RIDGE—A farm meeting will be held in the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Center Monday beginning at 7 p.m. This is the third of four meetings sponsored by the DAEOC and the university extension center for the benefit of farmers.

Recommendations of the University of Missouri college of agriculture pertaining to cotton, corn and grain sorghum production will be discussed. Tom Brown, area agronomy specialist, will discuss the subjects.

Set Asides for Wheat, Cotton Established

BENTON—Fletcher Withrow, chairman of the Scott County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service Committee, announced the 1971 crop set-aside of 20 percent for feed grain and cotton and 75 per cent for wheat has been established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

These set-aside percentages were announced as tentative earlier this year and were based on preliminary estimates of acreage required for this year's production to meet needs. The preliminary estimates now appear to be satisfactory, Withrow said.

The set-aside program is designed for a market-oriented agriculture. It will give producers more options on what and how much to plant than the former planting requirements. Under the 1971 Feed Grain, Wheat, and Cotton programs, a farmer sets aside his share of the national land diversion required to prevent overproduction -- but he can plant his remaining acres to what ever crop he chooses.

The 20 per cent diversion requirement for feed grain establishes a preliminary payment of 32 cents per bushel for corn and 29 cents per bushel for sorghum times the yield established for the farm on one-half the corn and grain sorghum base. Participants in the feed grain program will be guaranteed a national average of $1.35 a bushel on the production from half their corn base, and $1.24 a bushel ($2.21 a hundredweight) on half their sorghum base.

Producers participating in the cotton program will receive a payment computed by multiplying the support payment rate per pound times the payment yield established for the farm times the acres planted within the base acreage allotment.

Payments to participating cotton and feed grain producers will begin as soon as possible after July 1.

The certificate payment rate for wheat will depend on the final parity price for wheat and the actual market price received during the first five months of the marketing year. The loan level for wheat will be $1.25 per bushel, national average. Producers will get preliminary payments equal to 75 per cent of the estimated face value of the certificate soon after July 1. The remainder will be paid after December 1, 1971.

In 1971, acreage planted to soybeans will not be considered planted to wheat, feed grain, or cotton.

Eight alternate crops may be grown in 1971 on acreage set aside from the production of cotton, feed grain, and wheat. They are guar, sunflower, sesame, castor beans, mustard seed, safflower, crambe, and plantago ovato.

There will be a $10 per acre reduction in the payment due participating farms which plant any of the eight allowable crops on set-aside acreage.

Cotton, feed grain, and wheat producers who wish to qualify for program benefits must sign up to participate during the period March 1 through April 9, at the County ASCS Office.

PETER ROST, New Madrid, took second place, irrigated, in the National Corn Growers Association's 1970 national irrigated corn yield contest in Missouri.

Farmers Advised To Have Seed Tested Now

BLOOMFIELD—Seed testing will be a tremendously important practice especially for cotton and soybeans this year, and now is the time to have seed tested for planting this spring.

It is very important that farmers know the quality of their cotton and soybean seed this year. Indications are that good seed of both crops are in short supply, and reports also indicate that the germination of available seed of these crops is low in many cases. Consequently, it is very important that farmers take all possible steps to obtain a good stand of cotton and beans from the first planting. Farmers who have to plant the second time may find that seed with which to do so is not available. For farmers who have their cotton and bean seed, the first step should be to have seed tested for germination if the germination is not already known. Farmers who do not have sufficient seed of these crops should take steps to obtain seed of good germination as soon as possible. A few farmers are thinking about planting cotton seed which is more than one year old. By all means, the germination of this seed should be determined before planting.

A seed test may be obtained free of charge at either the Seed Testing Laboratory, Department of Field Crops, 108 Waters Hall, Columbia, Missouri or the State Seed Testing Laboratory, Department of Agriculture, Jefferson City, Missouri. These laboratories operate on the same schedule, and corn, cotton, soybeans, sorghum, sudan grass, and rice are tested from December 1 to April 1. Obviously, this is a season when the work load is heavy for the laboratories; therefore, a few weeks will be required to test the seed and get the results back to the farmer. Consequently, farmers are advised to send their samples to the laboratory as soon as possible.

It is very important that a good seend sample be sent to the laboratory as the results of the test can be no better than the sample tested. Small samples should be taken from different locations and at various depths throughout the seed lot and mixed thoroughly into one composite sample. The composite sample of cotton, corn, soybeans, sorghum, Sudan grass, and rice should consist of one quart of seed. Each sample should be clearly marked as to the name and address of the farmer, the seed lot from which it came, and the kind of tests desired. If purity tests are desired, sample submitted must be from reclaimed seed. Trashy samples will be test for germination only. Samples should be mailed in a strong container that is not likedly to be broken or torn in the mail.

An MU Guide Sheet pertaining to obtaining seed tests at both laboratories entitled "How to Get Timely Service in Seed Testing" is available upon request at your County University Extension Center.

Projects for Law Enforcement Council Disclosed

Tom Gilmore, Scout County prosecuting Attorney and member of the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council, has announced seven projects adopted by LEAC for 1971.

"A number of expanded projects are being proposed for the new program," he said. One of the difficulties encountered in the past year has been the 60 per cent, 40 per cent ratio of matching funds by which the counties and communities had to come up with at least 40 per cent of the funds to match the federal funds being provided.

"Many of our 5 counties and communities simply don't have the funds to take advantage of the LEAC program. For this reason, the ration of matching federal funds is being modified to a 75 per cent, 25 per cent basis. This new ratio will allow us to provide much needed assistance in some of the poorer area."

Heading the list of projects for 1971 is an improvement project for the Scott County jail.

An improvement of the Charleston police headquarters and jail is another project.

LEAC is considering the possibilities of a criminal investigation service for Scott county.

"We have been hampered in the past in our investigation efforts because we have not had trained men with sufficient time to make complete and detailed investigation of various crimes," Gilmore said. "The men available have simply to many other duties to attend to and have not had proper training to perform complete criminal investigation."

A further expansion of the juvenile program in Scott and Mississippi counties is being investigated.

"The improvement that we have seen from having as assistant juvenile officer has been very gratifying and we feel that if we can continue to provide closer supervision of young people getting in trouble we will eliminate many of these as potential adult offenders," said Gilmore.

Probation and parole services will also continue to receive attention and the final project calls for a public defender project for the 33rd judicial circuit if local funds can be obtained to match the federal funds.

"At present local lawyers are appointed to defend people who do not have money to hire their own attorney," Gilmore said. However, the service to defendants in criminal cases, which is a very important part of out American system of criminal justice, would be better served by having a qualified public defender."

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Who was the first American to spend a million dollars a year on advertising?

A—Isaac Singer to advertise the Singer sewing machine.

Q—Who were our tallest and shortest presidents?

A—Abraham Lincoln with a height of 6-4 was our tallest president; James Madison with a height of 5-4 was the smallest.

Man can adapt to the handicap of losing one or even two of his senses. The World Almanac notes, however, that one of the longest periods during which a human withstood total deprivation of all sensory stimulation—sight, hearing and touch—is only 92 hours.

SCENTED BOUQUET

Home-grown carnations can give blooms almost the size of those from flower shops.

Grow carnations for a scented bouquet. The newer, giant-flowered varieties have blooms almost as large as those you buy from the florist.

And yet, they can be grown from seeds, will bloom quickly and will flower until frost. Of course, you'll have to sow seeds early either indoors or out, but that's good practice anyway.

Probably the largest flowers come from seeds of English Giants. These, once plants are budding, should be disbudded just as the florist does in the greenhouse. All side buds should be nipped off so all the food the plant makes goes into the tip bud. That's how to get huge blooms.

A delightful, fairly new carnation is named Fragrance and seeds are available only in mixed colors.

These plants grow only 12 inches high, have strong enough stems to remain upright and are nice looking, compact plants.

The tiniest carnations, very dwarf and compact, so good for growing in pots, are those named Baby. Only 10 inches high, they have the same double flowers and delicious fragrance as all carnations.

It's the scent, after all, that has endeared carnations to centuries of gardeners.

Area Youth Fair Will Be Held in August

A steering committee has been formed to organize and develop an area youth fair in the Bootheel.

Members of the committee are: Bobby Wrather, CAtron, Bloyce Burch, Matthews, Mrs. Paul Cummins, Risco, Elliot Raffety, Charleston, Mrs. Mark Rolwing, Charleston, Zack Dismukes, East Prairie, Peter Myers, Sikeston, James Beaird, Sikeston, Jewell Moore, Oran, Ken Williams, Sikeston, John Harper, Sikeston.

Carroll Montgomery, New Madrid, Joe Ahmann, Charleston, Bill Purnell, Charleston, and Dave Kelley, Portageville.

Myers is chairman with Bobby Wrather, vice chairman and Carroll Montgomery, secretary.

Others will be asked to join the committee.

A date and place for the fair have not been set but plans are to have it in Sikeston in August. Youth in Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties will be invited to participate.

Departments are planned in home economics, crafts, livestock, crops, horticulture, industrial arts and shop and science. Along with Exhibits there will be events such as horse show, dog show and tractor rodeo, 4-H dress revue and share the fun.

At the committee's second meeting in the PCA Building Monday the members agreed to proceed with plans to produce a Fair this year.

Selection of the Board members and committees will be made at a meeting March 2, at the PCA office.

A finance committee will meet Wednesday at the PCA Office.

Myers said that membership on the committees is open to anyone who is willing to help. Interested persons may contact any member of the committee or the University of Missouri extension center in their county.

Race With Logs

Brazil's Kraho Indians participate in grueling log races as a semireligious sport. Logs weigh from 20 to 200 pounds and teams run with them for distances of two and three miles.

A deluge of rainfall measuring 2.65 inches at noon today forced Sikestonians to start digging out their boots to wade the flooded sidewalks and streets caused by the downpour.

Two Sikeston brothers, aged 29 and 25, met for the first time recently in Peoria, Ill., and found they "like each other pretty well." That was the comment of Elmer F. McIntosh, 25, when he first met his brother, Earl Eugene Disney, 29, for the first time. Both are sons of Mrs. L.C. Couch of Sikeston. Earl was let out for adoption when he was 20 months old before Elmer was born.

Funeral services for Joseph Marion Bartholomew of Manila, Ark., father of Henry Bartholomew of Sikeston, were conducted Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Savage of Morehouse are parents of a baby girl born at the Delta Community Hospital on the 18th.

Noble J. Nelson, yeoman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Nelson of Route 1, Sikeston recently reported for duty on the staff of the Commander in Chief, U.S. Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Funeral services for Harry Buchhloz, brother of P.H. Buchholz of Sikeston will be held tomorrow.

The Sikeston Bulldogs and the Doniphan Dons won out in the opening night play of the Class A Regional Tourney here at the Armory last night. The Sikeston lads, playing the opener, trounced the Dexter Bearcats, 73-49. The Dons won from the Eagles, 54-40.

Room Search Okayed by Judge

cBy Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Chester's marks in college went to pot, the school officials readily concluded, after investigation, that it was due to "pot." And, suspecting that Chester had more "grass" in his room than on the great plains, they had his room searched.

The search produced practically a bale of marijuana. The result? Chester was suspended from college and he appealed his suspension in court.

"Sneaking around my room was an unconstitutional invasion of my right of privacy," he complained to the judge. "There was no search warrant and thus no warrant to search."

"We run a college," was the answer," and not a drug saloon. As a part of our supervisory responsibility, our regulations reasonable provide for such searches. An education is important," concluded the officials, "and we don't want a single one to go up in smoke."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you reinstate Chester because of an unconstitutional search of his room?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that where there is a reasonable belief upon the part of college authorities that a student is using a dormitory room for illegal purposes or for purposes which could otherwise seriously interfere with campus discipline, the right of the school authorities to search the dormitory room supercedes the student's right of privacy.

Burlison to Spend Saturdays At Charleston

CHARLESTON — Congressman Bill D. Burlison plans to spend Saturdays for the next three months in Charleston, according to Hunt Wellborn, East Prairie.

As a pilot program, from February through May whenever he is in the district, Burlison will spend his Saturdays in Charleston for appointments with Mississippi County constituents.

Wellborn said the Congressman will be glad to talk with local constituents about social security, veterans, military, Federal Housing Administration or other problems with federal agencies.

The Congressman said the press of legislative business in Washington would largely dictate the number of weekends that he can get back to the 10th district during the four - month period.

Burlison will maintain an office and Lloyd Hall will serve as his assistant field secretary during the four - month program.

Burlison said if the local program works well, he may try it in other counties from time to time.

Board Freezes Pay of School Administrators

CHARLESTON — The R-1 board of education has frozen salaries of administrators at their present levels, "pending a decision by the legislature on school financing."

The action was taken Thursday night at the February meeting of the board.

During the meeting, new contracts were approved for the following administrators: CHS Principal Sherrill Summitt; CHS Assistant principal Coy Franklin Junior High Principal Warren Moss; Audio -Visual Director Bill Wills; Federal Programs Coordinator Frank Hudson Administrative Assistant Alvin Cope; Hearnes School Principal Jim Grimes; Assistant principals Fred Gordon and Don Thompson; Kindergarten Supervisor Miss Modena Garwood.

The board postponed action on the contract of Assistant Superintendent Louis Chaney, who told the board he was actively seeking other employment.

Superintendent Tom Wells was not considered by the board, as he has another year remaining on an earlier three - year contract.

Contract discussions took up most of the evening, but among other items of business, the board:

Heard a report from Miss Joan Haines of New Haven, Conn., who spent last week conducting an elementary music workshop. Mss Haines' written report will be forthcoming in two weeks, she told the board.

Heard a complaint from Mrs. Lois Culvert and a Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who said they were unhappy over alleged abuses in a "black history" program at the A.D. Simpson School. The parents said some classes at the school were getting distortions in the history they were being taught by two teachers, Mrs. Culver, who acted as spokesman for the three, said she did not object to recognition of legitimate claims of Negroes to mention in American history classes. The board and Superintendent Wells said they would look into the matter to see if the history material was actually being distorted by the teachers in question.

Accepted the resignation of Barbara Kelton as a teacher at the junior high school, and approved the contract of Rosalind Mercer to teach at Anniston for the remainder of this year.

Approved the advertising of bids on Lots 13 and 14 on the school property at Anniston, and also the wooden "home economics building" at Anniston, to be moved from its present location by the purchaser. The notice to bidders is contained on the Public Notice page in today.s newspaper.

Established a deadline of 4 p.m. March 12 for persons who wish to get their names on the ballot for school board in the April 6 election. Board members whose terms expire this year are Mrs. Audley Brown and William W. McNeary.

Voted to allow three persons to attend national education organization meetings.

Mrs. Celeste Hudson will attend a meeting of reading consultants in Washington, D. C.; Miss Modena Garwood will attend the Association for Curriculum Development meeting in St. Louis; and Jim Grimes will attend the Association of Elementary School Principals meeting in Cleveland, Ohio.

Heard a preliminary report on possible uses of $37,000 in federal funds included in the district's final allocation under Title I for the 1970-71 school year. Among the programs mentioned are: Tests for the disadvantaged; audio -visual supplies, equipment, and repair of equipment; payment of fixed charges (social security and retirement) for Title I teachers; instructional materials; and a summer program.

The Prayer from the upper room

We give thanks to God always for you all, constantly mentioning you in our prayers, remembering before our God and Father your work of faith and labor of love and steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ. (I Thessalonians 1:2-3 RSV)

PRAYER: Father of us all we know the most important gift we can give is ourselves. Grant us the grace not to feel offended by the talk of habits of others. Grant us endurance, understanding. and compassion, in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Administrator Now on Job

CHAFFEE — Lark Anderson, 24, of Scott City and formerly of Blytheville, is the new administrator of Chaffee general hospital. He began work Monday succeeding Raymond Mercer.

Anderson and his wife, Becky, are parents of a 20-month -old daughter, Bonnie Leigh. He was formerly in the mortgage loan business in Blytheville.

Anderson is a graduate of the Blytheville high school and holds a bachelor degree in business administration from Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Merchants Informed of Check Law

CHARLESTON — Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. this week announced the start of a campaign to inform Mississippi county merchants of how to handle bad checks.

Banta said his office is mailing instructions to all merchants in the county, along with a form that can be used by the merchant to file a complaint with the prosecutor.

In his letter, Banta insists that his office is not a collection agency, but rather is charged with prosecuting violators of the law. "If you do not want the person who gave you a bad check prosecuted, you should not file a complaint with this office," Banta says.

If criminal charges canbe filed, the prosecutor said, a standard 10-day notice is sent to the maker of an insufficient funds or account closed check. In the case of a "no account" check, charges will be filed immediately in Magistrate Court, Banta said, and in the other two types of cases, the charges are filed at the end of the 10-day notice period.

The prosecutor stresses that it is the duty of the person signing the complaint to appear in court and testify if asked to do so.

Banta says he will not normally accept bad checks for prosecution in the following situations:

(a) If the check is more than 3 months old.

(b) If you cannot determine who in your employ received the check.

(c) If you have agreed to or condoned partial payments.

(d) If you have no identifying information as to who gave you the check.

(e) If the checks was not dated.

(f) If the check has never been presented to the Bank for payment.

If the check was post - dated, if there was an agreement to hold the check for some period of time before presenting it for payment, or if the merchant took it with knowledge that it was no good, then the check does not come within the provision of Missouri bad check laws, Banta said.

This is also true, the prosecutor continued, if the merchant has agreed to accept payment of the check in payments over a period of time.

In concluding his letter,

In concluding his letter, Banta urged merchants to be cautious about accepting checks from persons outside Mississippi County; checks written on banks outside Missouri; and second party checks. Prosecution is difficult, if not impossible, if a bad check was accepted under any of these conditions, the prosecutor said.

School Bonds Sale Arranged

ORAN—The boad of education Tuesday night completed arrangements for the sale of $150,000 in general obligation bonds to finance an addition to the elementary building of the Scott County R-III school district.

Supt. B. T. Sheppard said the bonds will be sold to Perry Adams and Lewis bonding company of Kansas City at an average interest rate of 4.854 per cent. The board expressed satisfaction with the interest rate, he added.

Also attending Tuesday night's meeting was Paul Shawan of Drew and Jablonsky architectural firm of Poplar Bluff. It was agreed the architects would begin final drawings for the improvement. Plans are to call for bids in about six or eight weeks, Sheppard said.

Voters Saturday approved issuance of the bonds to finance the improvement. No tax levy was involved. The adidition wil include four classrooms, a speech room, a remedial reading room and restroom facilities.

TV Censors Gradually Relaxing Moral Taboos

AP Television-Radio Writer

New york 9ap0 - dinah Shore, discussing with Johnny Carson life in televisionland, this week complained mildly that NBC censors had "bleeped" erased refer- ences by a guest on her daytime show to an expensive San Francisco restaurant and to a brand of French wine that sells for $15 a bottle.

"I guess they thought they were free plugs," said Dinah. "But when I had quite a discussion with the author of 'The Sensuous Woman,' they never touched a word. Bureau of standards, where were you when I needed you?"

It was an interesting question. Sometimes the viewer wonders if network censors bother to check the exchange on daytime game shows which often are deliberately risque, many times started or egged on by the host.

Actor Forrest Tucker, a guest contestant with his wife on "It's Your Bet" this week, has constantly indulged in locker room quips. At one point Thursday, he surfaced with such a clinical remark that there was a sudden embarrassed stillness in the studio audience and frozen expressions by both his wife and host Dick Gautier.

Television, however, has gradually been shedding restraints. "Hell" and "damn," once automatically erased from tapes, are now more frequent than even the commercial breaks on the late evening talk shows. Frank discussions of sex abound on the daytime shows.

Some of the recent made-forTv movie features and even the series now are explicit in dealing with venereal disease, abortion, illicit relations, perversion and drug abuse.

The educational network recently left a brief nude scene in the movie "Marat-Sade."

Edward G. Robinson, reminiscing about the early days of talking pictures on the educational stations' "The Movie Crazy Years', thursday night recalled that in "Little Caesar" he died while invoking "mother of mercy" because he was not allowed to use the word "God." Today in television, the word is used commonly even when spoken for emphasis and quite without religious implications.

Purest areas of television are the situation comedies—no cuss words, no forbidden subject.

But wasn't it Billy Wilder who said he was looking for the day when they stopped using fourletter words and got back to a three-letter word: wit.

Documents Bare Secret World War II Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill overruled a World War II suggestion by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that Italy be given peace with honor in return for surrender, secret wartime documents have disclosed.

The documents, made public by the State Department Monday, also show:

—Roosevelt was sharply critical of French Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

—The United States suggested Britain cut its tank production and order more American tanks.

—U.S. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson accused the British of being only lukewarm on the planned D-Day invasion of Europe across the English Channel.

The documents show Eisenhower, then commander in chief of Allied Forces, proposed before the allied landing that Italy be promised a peace with honor should she surrender. He made the proposal in a May 17, 1943, letter to the combined chiefs of staff.

Roosevelt and Churchill disagreed, however, and sent a telegram to Eisenhower saying, "Most certainly we cannot tell the Italians that if they cease hostilities they will have a peace with honor. We cannot get away from unconditional surrender."

The documents also contain a letter from Roosevelt to Churchill written May 8, 1943, saying, "I do not know what to do with de Gaulle. Possibly you would like to make him governor of Madagascar."

Roosevelt's letter also accused de Gaulle, later to become president of France, of stirring up trouble in Algiers.

Stolen Cow Butchered On Farm

CHARLESTON — Mississippi County authorities are searching for cattle rustlers who butchered a cow on the Billy G. Brown farm Sunday night.

The animal, weighing about 1,100 pounds, was slaughtered some time during the night. The head and entrails were later found on a road 2½ miles south of East prairie off highway 105.

Three Injured

Three were injured in two Bootheel traffic accidents yesterday and today.

At 10:30 p.m. last night, one mile east of Clarkton on highway 162, a 1963 Chevrolet traveling west, driven by John W. Pulliam, Jr., 19, Kennett, went off the shoulder of the road and struck a bridge rail, the highway patrol said.

The driver had a left eye cut. A passenger, Billie Jefferson, 19, Kennett, sustained a mouth cut.

Both were taken to Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

At 3:05 a.m. today one-fourth mile north of Steele on highway 61, a 1971 Ford traveling south, driven by John W. Bahr, 21, Chicago, crossed the center line and struck headon a northbound 1969 Greyhound bus driven by James Terrell, 56, Barlow, Ky., the patrol said.

Bahr suffered face cuts and a broken ankle. He was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Disaster Data To Be Distributed In New Madrid

NEW MADRID—The New Madrid county court announced yesterday each family in New Madrid county will receive information on preparing for disasters. Distribution of this official information began Thursday and were mailed to each home in the county.

Through a federal grant from the Department of Defense, the State Disaster Planning and Operations Office has provided the latest emergency information booklet entitled "In Time of Emergency: for distribution to all families.

The program is financed under a Community Shelter Planning contract between the Department of Defense and State Office of Disaster Planning and Operations.

The booklet will give each person the necessary instruction on how to improvise a fallout shelter in their home, in addition to other emergency information on tornadoes, windstorms, fires, and care of injured in the home.

If you do not receive this booklet, you can contact Charles A. Penman, director, Portageville, or telephone 379—5110. The booklet is also available at the University of Missouri Extension office, court house, New Madrid.

Lou Gehrig, first baseman for the New York Yankees, holds the record for having played in the most consecutive games. He played in 2 130 consecutive games.

Eight Perish in Steele House Blaze

Mrs. Pearline Black shows mother's grief

STEELE (AP) — Eight died in a fire early today at their home, which a highway patrolman said "burned up before anyone arrived at the scene."

Trooper Kenneth Howell said apparatus from the Steele fire department was dispatched to the scene about two miles to the north "to cool the fire."

Killed were Gladys Lee Booth, 20; Kathy Booth, 18 months; Billy Lee Booth, 5 months; Maggie Lee Black, 15; Kathaline Black, 12; Joyce Ann Black, 8, Anita Black, 7, and Barbara Black, 14 months, a daughter of Maggie Black.

The highway patrol said they were children of Pearline Black, about 40, and her common-law husband, Roy Lee Marshall, also about 40, a farm laborer.

Marshall and his son, Robert Lee Marshall, 15, were taken to John Gaston hospital in Memphis, and are in cricital condition.

Mrs. Black and her daughter Gloria were treated in the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti and released.

Howell, who said he was investigating a traffic accident near the scene, said the fire was out of control "and almost over" when he arrived. The small wooden home, tenant house in this Southeast Missouri region, "probably would burn in 30 minutes' time" Howell said.

It was not determined how the fire started.

Tom German, Pemiscot county deputy sheriff, speculated the fire began in the cluttered attic, where there was debris and possibly faulty wiring.

Other reports were that the fire starting from stoves in the kitchen and living room.

Mrs. Black said she woke up about 3 a.m. and the "back of the house was completely afire and was spreading to the bedroom."

She yelled to the other members of the family and then jumped from a first story window to safety. The three other survivors escaped the blaze by running through the front room into the yard. Attempts to rescue the other members of the family were unsuccessful.

It was first believed seven lost their lives in the blaze but a neighbor's insistance caused authorities to check with Mrs. Black, who reported Barbara Black, her 14 month old daughter had perished.

Seven bodies were removed about 6:30 a.m. by sheriff's officers and neighbors. A witness said a crowd of about 50 had gathered at the site.

The eighth body was removed at 8 a.m.

The Steele fire department was called to cool the burned debris to allow removal of the bodies.

Six of the bodies were found in a bedroom on the north side of the house. Two others were found in a living room that had been converted to a bedroom.

The family's station wagon near the house was destroyed.

The bodies were taken to the German Funeral Home.

The house is one mile north of Steele on a gravel road off highway 61.

Funeral services are tentatively set for Sunday afternoon. It was reported this morning by Mrs. Black, that the remains of the family will possibly be buried in one casket.

Neighbors gathered from miles around this morning to view the aftermath.

South Viet Drive in Laos Runs Into Deep Trouble

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's 12-day-old drive against the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos apparently was stopped cold and in deep trouble today as the North Vietnamese launched heavy counter-offensives against both sides of the frontier.

Elements of a 9,000-man U.S. blocking force on the Vietnamese side also came under attack and a half-dozen more American helicopters flying in support of the South Vietnamese were reported shot down.

The fighting was the heaviest since the 16,000 South Vietnamese entered Laos to cut North Vietnam's principal supply network.

A South Vietnamese ranger position overlooking a main artery of the trail was overrun with heavy losses, military spokesmen said, and two ranger patrol bases nearby remained under siege fora third successive day.

An American advisor on the Vietnamese side told Associated Press photographer Rick Merron: "The rangers are holding on by the skin of their teeth."

Field reports said more than 50 Saigon troops had been killed Friday and Saturday, more than 200 wounded and 26 missing.

South Vietnamese field commanders estimated 600 North Vietnamse troops were slain under an onslaught of artillery fire and air support by U.S. fighterbombers and helicopter gunships.

The U.S. Command reported two attacks on American positions north of Khe Sanh, on the Vietnamese side of the border, and acknowledged the loss of two more helicopters. A spokesman said five Americans were killed, 14 were wounded and three were missing.

U.S. B52s struck inside South Vietnam for the first time in nearly two weeks.

The eight-jet bombers attacked a North Vietnamese buildup threatening American forces just to the south of the demilitarized zone.

In another attack in the northern sector of South Vietnam, the old imperial capital, Hue, was shelled for the first time in more than six months. South Vietnamese headquarters said three Soviet-made 100-pound rockets fell into the city and destroyed two houses, killed two civil ans and wounded seven.

Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported from the border region that less than 1,000 South Vietnamese rangers at the patrol bases two miles apart were under siege by a regiment and a half of North Vietnamese troops, estimated to number as many as 3,000 men.

Col. Nguyen Van Hiep, commander of the 1st Ranger Group, said the bases were being hammered with an unrelenting rain of 130mm and 152mm artillery fire and a "lot of small arms fire."

North Vietnamese troops surrounded one of the hills, and U.S. helicopters trying to get in to lift out South Vietnamese wounded and a wounded American crew chief came under heavy antiaircraft fire. They had to turn back.

North Vietnamese troops surrounded one of the hills but a U.S. helicopter managed to land and take off with a wounded crew chief who had been stranded there for two days.

The South Vietnamese also are in trouble because heavy anti aircraft fire and uncertain weather, often rainy with low cloud cover, are causing problems for U.S. aircraft flying resupply and fire support missions.

Emergency Alert Erroneously Sent

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The nation's radio and television stations were erroneously alerted today that the nation was under a state of emergency.

The false signal resulted from an error at the National Warning Center inside Cheyenne Mountain and was transmitted by the center directly onto the wires of The Associated Press and United Press International at 9:32 a.m., EST. It was canceled at 9:50 a.m.

Only the White House can order release of such an emergency notificatio . Immediately after the signal was transmitted the White House was asked what happened.

"Nothing has come from the President," a spokesman at the White House press office said.

Col. Gordon Ockenden, command director for the day of North American Air Defense Command at Cheyenne, said:

"The Saturday morning test tape that normally goes out was inadvertently replaced by an actual warning tape" at the National Warning Center.

Both NORAD and the center are located in the mountain near Colorado Springs.

Asked whether the error was a mechanical or a human one, he said he would not make any comment on that at once. He declined to elaborate further on the incident.

Ockenden said he was being besieged with calls from generals in Washington to explain what happened.

A spokesman for American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which leases wires to the news services, said the tape normally used explains the message is merely a test. The tests are run weekly, on Saturdays and Sundays.

Stations around the country ceased broadcasting, some after warning listeners the emergency shutdown was ordered by the government.

Others, waiting to check manuals or with their network headquarters, remained on the air.

Broadcast stations said the erroneous message carried the correct authenticator word "hatefulness." Under the Conelrad alert system, stations receiving an emergency warning are supposed to check manuals to verify it with a code word.

Two Killed in Explosion

MEMPHIS, Tenn (AP) — Two men were killed early today when an explosion ripped through an empty gasoline barge under tow on the Mississippi River south of here.

One victim was identified as David Walker, about 40, of Stevensport, Ky., master of the tow.

The second man, a deckhand, was not immediately identified.

The blast came as crewmen were battling a fire aboard one of four barges under tow by the Larry Turner, Coast Guard spokesman said.

One body was recovered from the river. The second body was found aboard the barge several hours later.

The two went around on Tower Bar shortly after the fire, but early today coast Guard cutters Kanawah, and Sycamore were working to bring the tow to shore at nearby Cow Island.

Sergeant Killed in Vietnam

Sgt. 1/C Leslie L. Karnes was killed in action in Vietnam Sunday. He was a passenger on a water craft when a mine detonated and the area came under attack by a hostile force, according to the information from the Secretary of Defense.

Karnes was a career marine with almost 19 years of active duty. He was serving his second tour in Vietnam.

He married Soon Lim in Seoul, Korea, Sept. 19, 1957.

Survivors include Mrs. Karnes, twin sons, Michael and Mark, a daughter, Sue Ann, 836 Wayne; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Karnes of 435 West Murray Lane; one brother, R Robert Karnes of Sikeston; two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Proffer of Scott City and Mrs. Devola Wilson of Baldwin, Ill.

Shoplifting Followed by Six Arrests

Approximately $581 in merchandise was shoplifted from the Accent Shop on Center Street and the Classic Shop at Midtowner Shopping Center yesterday afternoon, police reported.

Police said four women and two men were apprehended at the Classic Shop and charged with the thefts. Names were unavailable but the six listed addresses in Chicago, St. Louis, and Memphis. The merchandise was recovered.

Police said the first report of shoplifting came at 2:24 p.m. yesterday from the Accent Shop. The suspects left there in a late model Cadillac and went to the Classic Shop which reported shoplifting to police at 2:39 p.m.

Woman Faces Second Charge In Shooting

NEW MADRID—A second felonious assault charge has been filed against Mrs. Louise Herion, 46, in connection with the shooting Feb. 10 at her home at 535 Main St.

The charge accuses Mrs. Herion of firing .38 revolver shots at Deputy Walter Ivy and City Officer Gene Lyles when they were called to the home after Alton Eugene "Whacker" Jackson, 33, was wounded. The first charge was filed for the injury of Jackson. Ivy and Lyles were not wounded.

She is under $5,000 bond pending preliminary hearing on the charges Tuesday.

No Evidence Of Felony in Fire Death

Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore said this morning that his office had one more statement to take from a person in the investigation to determine if criminal neglect was involved in the death of 11-year-old Timmy Lee Brooks, an invalid, Sunday in a fire while alone in his apartment.

"The preliminary feeling now is that no felony was involved and that it (the fire and death) was just an unfortunate tragic accident," Gilmore said.

John White, stepfather of the boy, was gone at the time of the blaze at 206 Dixie. On his return, White told firemen that his son was in the house. The boy's body was found on a bed.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

People have not outlived the age of romance as long as it is still possible to fool them.

Here's a special thought about reading since this is National Book Week which is being emphasized by our city library.

Famous pianist and comedian, Victor Borge, who has brought so much fun into the world, has this to say about the fun of reading aloud to your children: "What you read to children isn't important. You could read the telephone book and they wouldn't care. They'd love it. Young children, at least, don't have to understand what you read. Oh, it's fine if you can be dramatic. And if you want to read poetry that's okay by them. They'll dance and sway to it. They'll like it if you'll laugh. But even these things -- even how you read -- aren't important. What matters is that they're with you and that you're paying attention to them (and to nobody else). It's like going fishing. The fish you catch aren't as important as all the other things that go along with fishing. When you're reading to children, it's the other things that are happening between you that are really important. You gain more than you give, believe me!"

WORDSWORTH AFTER TWO CENTURIES

"Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive, But to be young was very Heaven!"

—William Wordsworth

The Most familiar portraits of Wordsworth depict him late in his long life when his hair and beard wreathed his eyes and large, arched nose like hoar frost. They make him appear to have been as ascetic as an Old Testament prophet. But the English poet, who fathered an illegitimate child in France and whose intellectual passions were based on animal-like emotions, was hardly ascetic, although he was something of a prophet. And in his own time. Wordsworth, who was born on April 7, nearly 200 years ago, is worthy of being remembered if for no other reason than the fact that he heralded a new age in the history of English literature — the Romantic period.

But his poetry is of far more than just historical value. It is some of the greatest and certainly the most influential poetry of the first half of the 19th century. In short, Wordsworth was a literary giant. That is why the Library of Congress presented a reading of the poet's work. A U. S. bicentennial tribute is fitting, for Wordsworth was perhaps just as important an influence on American letters as on English literature.

Few poets today feel any special kinship with Wordsworth. Still it's a fairly safe bet that his poetry — as traditional as it now seems — will continue to be honored as the years and centuries roll by while much of the avant-garde gimmickry that poses as poetry today will have been long forgotten. Time is an exacting critic.

A WEEK TO REMEMBER

The week of February 20 to 27 has been set aside as National Future Farmers of America Week. The theme of this observance is "FFA --- An Opportunity For Youth." The Future Farmers of America is a national organization of high school students studying vocational agriculture in our public schools. It is an educational, nonprofit, nonpolitical organization of, by and for these students. The foundation upon which it is built includes a leadership, character development, sportsmanship, cooperation, community service, thrift, scholarship, improved agriculture, organized recreation, citizenship and patriotism. The FFA itself does not make its members outstanding, but, instead, provides the opportunity for them to excel, grow and become outstanding. Young people in FFA learn the meaning of local initiative. Local FFA chapters provide the strength of the organization. In the local chapters, student officers and members develop into agricultural leaders.

As long as we have youth orgainzations such as the FFA, we may rest assured that the violence and lawlessness of the dissenters, whose only aim is destruction, will represent the acts of a minority -- and a small minority at that.

Mr. A. A. Draeger, the planning manager for Humble Oil & Refining Company, remarked, "The petroleum industry generally has been well aware of the environmental conservation aspects of oil production and transportation for a good many years. Numerous costly steps have been taken, and a great deal of progress has been made. The industry is working diligently on these (environmental) problems and is bringing its abundant technological skills to bear on them. We believe that with a reasonably satisfactory economic climate and freedom from overly restrictive regulatory controls, the requisite energy supplies will be forthcoming at affordable prices."

THE SIMPLE IDEA WORKS BEST

It was a long time ago that Russell Conwell made a fortune delivering a Chautauqua lecture called "Acres of Diamonds." His message was that opportunities for advancement are everywhere, and quite frequently may be found literally underfoot. The recent death of Peter S. Vosbikian at the age of 78 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, brings to mind the lesson than many times the simple idea is the best idea.

Mr. Vosbikian, to all appearances, didn't have much "going for him." A native of Armenia, he had emigrated to the United States at the age of 21. He didn't have any powerful connections or even a good command of the English language, at first, but that didn't stop him.

At the dinner table one night, Mrs. Vosbikian complained about the unpleasant task of cleaning the kitchen floor with mop and pail. Mr. Vosbikian thought about it for a moment, and then said: "I think I have a perfect mop for you." After dinner he went to his small workshop in the cellar of his house and assembled an unlikely conglomeration of items; a broom handle, a breadboard, a cookie sheet, a rubber sponge, a scrub brush and a number of nuts and bolts. Thereupon was invented an item which has been happily purchased by millions of housewives; the squeeze mop. Two thriving manufacturing firms, the Hardware and Industrial Tool Company and the Quickie Manufacturing Company were to grow from that simple idea, in turn providing jobs for hundreds of workers — to say little of making floorwashing a slightly more pleasant task than it had been before.

While many of today's inventions are developed in sophisticated laboratories, there are still many "simple" ideas waiting for an inventor.

READING MATERIAL FOR BLIND
LISTED IN NEW PUBLICATION

Now it is possible to obtain information about reading materials for visually handicapped people from one source. The information is available in the American Foundation for the Blind's new publication, "Sources of Reading Materials for the Visually Handicapped."

It consists of 22 separate sections, each on a specific aspect of blind readers' needs. Some of the subjects covered are braille publishers, sources of braille music, and large type periodicals.

The publication may be obtained from American Foundation for the Blind, 15 West 16th Street, New York, N.Y. 10011.

BACK TO BILLBOARDS

At times the Missouri Legislature has shown a remarkable skill in writing non - legislation. In 1966, for example, a bill supposed to control highway billboards was deliberately written so that few billboards would be controlled. The device gave county courts power to zone roadsides commercial where advertising is permitted.

This legislation never conformed to federal standards but Washington only issued warnings until the other day, when Secretary of Transportation Volpe wrote Gov. Hearnes a letter. Mr. Volpe said time for compliance with federal standards will run out this year; then Missouri could lose up to 10 per cent of its federal highway aid funds.

Since 1966 times have changed, the Legislature has changed and the State Highway Commission has obtained the introduction of a new bill eliminating the absurd county court power to turn federal roads into billboard alleys. Of course, there are more billboards than ever, but is it worth a potential $12,000,000 loss in federal funds to keep them there? The House Roads Committee should be the first to say No.

County Superintendent of Schools Ira Denny comes forth with some rather interesting statistics if any of us happen to be around in the long -away future.

Seems that in the year 2,000, February will have two extra days, the 29th and 30th. This will keep happening every 1,000 years, because Leap Year which slides in every four years, doesn't take up enough slack.

It's bad enough now for those who have a birthday only every four years, but think about the poor souls born on February 30, 2,000. They will never have a birthday.

However, be of good cheer. They have changed George Washington's birthday from February 22 to February 15. And perhaps by the year 2,000 the world will be so computerized that everyone's birthday will come on the same Monday. That way we add another national three - day holiday and can get all of the cake baking done at one time.

TIME FOR ACTION

Russia is building modern merchant ships at a record rate, while the U.S. Merchant Marine has been declining. But, there are signs of change. For one thing, we do have a nucleus fleet of modern merchant ships upon which to build.

Equally important is the widening recognition of the need for action. This need was well expressed by Mr. Charles F. Duchein, president of the Navy League of the United States, when he said, "Isn't it high time we stopped talking about the mess in the merchant marine and started giving a positive American touch to our crucial situation at sea? What needs to be done is to build up our maritime posture to a preeminent world position. The Soviet Union's new oceanic vision dictates a vastly accelerated build - up of our merchant fleet .... Our fast moving 20th Century industry depends increasingly on strategic materials carried from overseas in ships. The burgeoning trade along the sea lanes of the world affords the most inviting possibility for economic growth in our history. But you and I know we now carry only a fraction of even our own trade .... we are not capitalizing on the exploding lucrative world markets -- we continue to talk when positive action is called for."

The U.S. has always been a land of opportunity. Opportunity now beckons as never before in world commerce. But, U.S. -flag merchant ships are needed to open the door.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

As we swing into the 70's many club groups, as well as individuals, may be looking for fresh ways to help their fellowmen. Although the aged, the disabled and the poor receive assistance from various units of government, they still need help from their local communities.

One inspiring program that has been spreading gradually across the country is known as Meals on Wheels. The object is to feed the elderly or incapacitated who cannot prepare their own meals.

While not necessarily a poverty program, Meals on Wheels does reach the poor because in many cases it's the lack of money that makes the service necessary. And where there are people who cannot pay the small fees, the meals ar provided free.

There are more than 8 MOW groups operating today Many participate in the U.S Department of Agriculture Donated Foods Program, but a depend on donations fo operating costs, and each has little different program from th others.

In Nashville, Tenn., MOW operates through the facilities o a church. Six days a week tw meals (one hot and one cold) ar prepared and delivered to th aged. The meals cost about 7 cents each. In addition there is weekly bag of fresh fruit.

In Jersey City, N.J., th MOW is provided with fre kitchen space, equipment an utilities by the City Housin Authority. They feed 50 to 7 people (between the ages of 6 and 90) two meals five days week. On Fridays a heavy sou is sent as an extra meal for th weekend.

In Pittsburgh, Pa., the MOW which was formed by th Lutheran Service Society operates from a local church Some 50 volunteers prepare tw meals five days a week. Th maximum charge is $7.50 pe week, but some clients pay les or even nothing.

In other cases MOW group work out of club houses hospitals, community centers Some attempt to serve meal suited to particular diets. Other have dietitians who plan specia menus for the ill.

Occasionally meals are serve in a cafeteria as well as on hom delivery so that people who ca get out have a change of scene

The New York State Offic for the Aging has provided 3-year grant to establish a MOW program in the Yorkville sectio of New York City. So there ar various directions to go for help if you want to start a Meals o Wheels program in your area.

It can be a happy New Decade!

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Down through the Vietnam War years, the raw facts about the fighting have gone through such a filtering and flavoring process that the public no longer trusts the official statement.

This is reflected in the large number of inquiries we received, asking what is really happening on the battlefront. We have sought the answers from our own competent and confidential sources. Here are the most newsworthy replies:

WHAT IS THE REAL PURPOSE OF THE DRIVE INTO LAOS? The aim is to cut the North Vietnamese supply line. But unfortunately, most of the supplies for the present dry season had already moved down the Ho Chi Minh trail network before the South Vietnamese struck. Intelligence reports show a heavy flow of war goods down the infiltration routes during the dry months of September, October and November. But the flow had already dwindled to a trickle before the South Vietnamese could cut it off. This would indicate that the communist forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia already had received most of the supplies that had been intended for them during the dry season.

WHAT IS THE RISK THAT THE LAOS INVASION WILL ESCALATE THE WAR? Hanoi isn't expected to mass a large force in Laos to resist the South Vietnamese operation. Allied forces, complete with waiting planes and massed artillery, are prepared to devastate any North Vietnamese force that might come into the open. The communist strategy has always been to avoid battles they might lose and wait for a chance to attack a vulnerable spot. Hanoi is more likely, therefore, to strike back elsewhere at a weak point. The best clue: communist forces already have increased the military pressure on the Royal Lao government in northern Laos.

CHINESE IN LAOS

IS RED CHINA LIKELY TO INTERVENE IN LAOS? The Red Chinese have warned that they won't remain indifferent to the South Vietnamese drive into Laos but would take "all effective measures" to aid the communist forces. In recent months, the Chinese have stepped up construction of a road that cuts across Laos almost to the Thai border. The construction crew and guard force, which formerly had numberd no more than 3,000, has now been increased to more than 15,000. The best estimate is that the road is intended as a supply line for communist guerillas, not an invasion route for Chines troops. Overt Chinese involvement in Indochina isn't anticipated.

IS THE WHITE HOUSE TELLING THE TRUTH ABOUT THE ABSENCE OF U.S. COMBAT TROOPS IN LAOS? American ground troops stopped at the Laotian border, although they are ready for action in Laos if they should be needed to help repel a North Vietnamese counterattack. CIA-led guerrilla bands of mountain tribesmen are also operating in souther Laos, assisting the South Vietnamese invaders. Technically, the American advisers aren't military men but civilians on the CIA payroll. The Army's special forces, however, have sent observation teams across the border.

IS PRESIDENT NIXON TRYING TO WIN OR TO WIND DOWN THE VIETNAM WAR? The President is seeking to turn the war over to the South Vietnamese but to leave them strong enough to defend themselves. He also wants to protect the withdrawing American troops from a possible Asian Dunkirk. He views the drive into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and Dunkirk. He views the drive into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and the bombing attacks upon North Vietnam as rear-guard action to reduce Hanoi's ability to mount an offensive. Meanwhile, the President has withdrawn almost all draftees from combat operations. Before the end of the year, he hopes to keep all Americans out of combat except for air and artillery support for the South Vietnamese.

MAFIA EXPOSE

Some of the nation's most notorious racketeers, identified in federal files as Mafia bigwigs, had been living quietly in New York's fashionable Westchester County until a gravel-voiced newspaper editor straight out of "Front Page," decided to fight them his own way.

Barney Waters, editor of the Herald Statesman, knew that Costa Nostra chieftans had settled in the Yonkers area. If they could escape prosecution, he decided, at least he could expose them to their neighbors.

Waters ordered his reporters to dig into the criminal backgrounds of the hoodlums who were living in fashionable respectability in the community. then he sent his photographers around to take pictures of their villa-style suburban homes.

For two years he battled the mobsters, winding up with a dramatic, two-week series. Even before the series began, the hoods learned of it and threatened Waters's life. The Herald Stateman's general manager, Jack Sheils, received a gruff telephone threat against the newspaper plant. Two .38 pistol shots blasted the newspaper's windows one night shattering glass in the advertising department.

During the two years, Waters got hundreds of threatening calls, four broken windshields and six different tires slashings. But through it all, the vinegary editor refused even to remove his name from the telephone directory. He told sympathetic friends: "I'm not going into hiding just for that lunch of punks."

Waters exposed such nationally-know Cosa Nostra gangsters as Vincent Rao, "Big Pat" Pagano and Frank Borelli, who lived like peaceful suburbanites in Westchester County when they weren't engaged in the narcotics, gambling, extortion and loan-shark rackets. Borelli was even a member of Water's Club.

Amazing, nothing happened Theorized Waters: "Somebody big must have passed the word to lay off for fear things would get even worse for them in the paper."

FOOTNOTE: Our own Mafia sources said publicity "spooks" the big boys worse than a prosecution. Meanwhile, the Mafia is spreading into other suburban communities. Exposes, like those of the Herals Statesman, provided the subjects are indisputable members of the crime syndicate, help to mobilize community support against organized crime.

Muscle In Money: Labor Chiefs Pledge to Shift Billions To Back Drive to Unionize Nation's Banks

BAL HARBOUR, Fla.: -- Here you can lobby at the poolside, around the cabanas, in the bars, at the racetracks and on the golf links - what with labor's most powerful leaders more heavily concentrated than ever except at biennial national conventions. This is the high command. In fact, here are a series of interlocking high commands. And labor leaders do lobby other labor leaders.

At any given moment there are a score of confidential conferences or whispered conversations - some of which rock the land or even the world. There are such men as Tran quoc Buu, president of the (South) Vietnamese Confederation of Christian Labor who has traveled all the way from Saigon, and ex-cop John Cassese, eager to build a national police union across the U.S., and Charles Feinstein, head of the leather goods union desperately trying to save his organization and industry from destruction by foreign imports.

all eyes are riveted on the building and construction union chiefs. 'Tis a pity their stories aren't told -- for these are the background "in depth" stories which sooner or later make the headlines.

One of them especially should be noted as he seeks support for his own thing -- the unionization of banks, credit unions, Blue Cross, Blue Shield and the entire Federal Reserve System.

He is Howard Coughlin, president of the 85,000 - member Office and Professional Employes Union (OPEIU), unique because it also unionizes other union headquarters.

Howard Coughlin is slowly building up a head of steam. If successful, he'll convince labor's high command to move hundreds of millions of dollars -- perhaps billions -- from one bank to another. And there are billions to be shifted.

His technique is to convince national union presidents and leaders of state federations of labor to pass resolutions at their conventions pledging his bank employes organization drive full support. This means promising to put labor's millions in unionized banks - of which there are now about a score, mostly small. But big deposits would make bigger banks.

At last year's midwinter session of labor's 35-man AFL-CIO Executive Council, whose majority of one generally is George Meany, Howard Coughlin won a resolution pledging him full support. The motion means, if implemented, that unions would deposit their own treasuries and welfare and pension funds and urge their members to deposit their savings in unionized banks.

During this past year, Mr. Coughlin and his national organizer, Arthur Lewandowski, working through their own locals. convinced 17 state federations to pass similar resolutions. These ran all the way from New York to California.

There has been no majo shifting of billions of dollar yet. But Howard Coughlin pushing the resolution in th remaining 33 state labor bodie

"We will continue to push i the state federations of labo which have not yet passed ou resolution to get it through, says Mr. Coughlin. "Thereafte we positively will call on th national AFL-CIO and thei affiliates everywhere to mak good their promise made exacti one year ago to deposit mone in those banks which have bee signed up by our union. Once w prove that money will b shifted, to show we can delive then we'll broaden ou organization campaign.

"That's why we're here."

Mr. Coughlin has met wit Mr. Meany who turned him ove to AFL-CIO Organizing Directo William Kircher. Mr. Coughlin campaign could work - an effect billions of dollars. Or could fall flatter than one Tito's dinars. It's in the crucibl Like up in New Haven where th professional employes unio took a swing at the Connecticu Savings Bank's 250 employes and lost.

There was a unio certification election on Feb. 1 Backing the OPEIU was Connecticut labor federatio It's leader, Vincent J. Sirabell president of the Greater Ne Haven Central labor Counci wrote to the bank employes ju before the official poll whic was to determine whether the wanted to be represented by M Coughlin's organization.

Mr. Sirabella said he w writing in behalf of the council 30,000 members. Slightl optimistic, he wrote that " after you have selected OPEI as your union you have m guarantee that you will receiv 100 per cent cooperation an support from us. This w include urging all of ou affiliated local unions to depos funds in your unionized ban ..."

Well, the OPEIU lost. No the labor people there a preparing to pressure the members into withdrawing fund from the bank. This is the fir time the technique has bee used. Howard Coughlin and h allies have put it on the lin This is a new version of the ol boycott tactic which Geor Meany is reviving. If this sma bank can be pressured by th small labor council, bigger ban can be swung by bigger labo coalitions, say the unic organizers whose mirage has skyline made up of the Bank America, Chase Manhattan an First National City of Ne York.

At the same time, the drive on to convince Blue Cross an Blue Shield -- which c considerable business wit unions -- to ease the way fo unionization of their 35,00 employes. And the Feder Reserve's 29,000 "workers'. a on the agenda. And there a 2,400 credit unions.

It's a saga which has bee overlooked in the lobbies he filled with so many men of lab and political power. But shou the union of professionals b able to flex the muscle which has in labor's billions, it's a sa which will remake labo strategy.

In Defense of Women

by H. L. Mencken

FUNDAMENTAL MOTIVES

How successful such a concealment may be is well displayed by the general acceptance of the notion that women are reluctant to enter into marriage — that they have to be persuaded to it by eloquence and pertinacity, and even by a sort of intimidation. The truth is that, in a world almost divested of intelligible idealism, and hence dominated by a senseless worship of the practical, marriage offers the best career that the average woman can reasonably aspire to, and, in the case of very many women, the only one that actually offers a livelihood. What is esteemed and valuable, in our materialistic and unintelligent society, is precisely that petty practical efficiency at which men are expert, and which serves them in place of free intelligence. A woman, save she show a masculine strain that verges upon the patholigical, cannot hope to challenge men in general in this department, but it is always open to her to exchange her sexual charm for a lion's share in the earnings of one man, and this is what she almost invariably tries to do. That is to say, she tries to get a husband, for getting a husband means, in a sense, enslaving an expert, and so covering up her own lack of expertness, and escaping its consequences. Thereafter she has at least one stout line of defence against a struggle for existence in which the prospect of survival is chiefly based, not upon the talents that are typically hers, but upon those that she typically lacks. Before the average woman succumbs in this struggle, some man or other must succumb first. Thus her craft converts her handicap into an advantage.

In this security lies the most important of all the benefits that a woman attains by marriage. It is, in fact, the most important benefit that the mind can imagine, for the whole effort of the human race, under our industrial society, is concentrated upon the attainment of it. But there are other benefits, too. One of them is that increase in dignity which goes with an obvious success; the woman who has got herself a satisfactory husband, or even a highly imperfect husband, is regarded with respect by other women, and has a contemptuous patronage for those who have failed to do likewise. Again, marriage offers her the only safe opportunity, considering the levantine view of women as property which Christianity has preserved in our civilization, to obtain gratification for that powerful complex of instincts which we call the sexual, and, in particular, for the instinct of maternity. The woman who has not had a child remains incomplete, ill at ease, and more than a little ridiculous. She is in the position of a man who has never stood in battle; she has missed the most colossal experience of her sex. Moreover, a social odium goes with her loss. Other women regard her as a sort of permanent tyro, and treat her with ill-concealed disdain, and deride the very virtue which lies at the bottom of her experiential penury. There would seem to be, indeed, but small respect among women for virginity per se. They are against the woman who has got rid of hers outside marriage, not because they think she has lost anyting intrinsically valuable, but because she has made a bad bargain, and one that materially diminishes the sentimental respect for virute held by men, and hence one against the general advantage and well-being of the sex. In other words, it is a guild resentment that they feel, not a moral resentment. Women, in general, are not actively moral, nor, for that matter, noticeably modest. Every man, indeed, who is in wide practice among them is occasionally astounded and horrified to discover, on some rainy afternoon, an almost complete absence of modesty in some women of the highest respectability.

But of all things that a woman gains by marriage the most valuable is economic security. Such security, of course, is seldom absolute, but usually merely relative: the best provider among husbands may die without enough life insurance, or run off with some preposterous light of love, or become an invalid or insane, or step over the intangible and wavering line which separates business success from a prison cell. Again, a woman may be deceived: there are stray women who are credulous and sentimental, and stray men who are cunning.Yet again, a woman may make false deductions from evidence accurately before her, ineptly guessing that the clerk she marries today will be the head of the firm tomorrow, instead of merely the bookkeeper tomorrow. But on the whole it must be plain that a woman, in marrying, usually obtains for herself a reasonably secure position in that station of life to which she is accustomed. She seeks a husband, not sentimentally, but realistically; she always gives though to the economic situation; she seldom takes a chance if it is possible to avoid it. It is common for men to marry women who bring nothing to the joint capital of marriage save good looks and appearance of vivacity; it is almost unheard of for women to neglect more prosaic inquiries. Many a rich man, at least in America, marries his typist or the governess of his sister's children and is happy thereafter, but when a rare woman enters upon a comparable marriage she is commonly set down as insane, and the disaster that almost always ensues quickly confirms the diagnosis.

The economic and social advantage that women thus seek in marriage — and the seeking is visible no less in the kitchen wench who aspires to the heart of a policeman than in the fashionable flapper who looks for a husband with a Rolls-Royce — is, by a curious twist of fate, one of the underlying causes of their precarious economic condition before marriage rescues them. In a civilization which lays its greatest stress upon an uninspired and almost automatic expertness, and offers its highest rewards to the more intricate forms thereof, they suffer the disadvantage of being less capable of it than men. Part of this disadvantage, as we have seen, is congenital; their very intellecutal enterprise makes it difficult for them to become the efficient machines that men are. But part of it is also due to the fact that, with marriage always before them, coloring their every vision of the future, and holding out a steady promise of swift and complete relief, they are under no such implacable pressure as men are to acquire the sordid arts they revolt against. The time too short and the incentive too feeble. Before the woman employe of twentyone can master a tenth of the idiotic "knowledge" in the head of the male clerk of thirty, or even convince herself that it is worth mastering, she has married the head of the establishment or maybe the clerk himself, and so abandons the business. It is, indeed not until a woman has definitely put away the hope of marriage, or, at all events, admitted the possibility that she may have to do so soon or late, that she buckles down in earnest to whatever craft she practises, and makes a genuine effort to develop competence. No sane man, seeking a woman for a post requiring laborious training and unremitting diligence, would select a woman still definitely young and marriageable. To the contrary, he would choose either a woman so unattractive sexually as to be palpably incapable of snaring a man, or one so embittered by some catastrophe of amour as to be pathologically emptied of the normal aspirations of her sex.

Dogwood-Azalea Tour Set April 24-25

CHARLESTON — April 24 and 25 have been announced as the dates for Charleston's third annual Dogwood and Azalea tour, according to Dr. Lowell Nicholas, chairman of the Community Betterment committee.

In a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office Tuesday night, representatives of many of the civic clubs made tentative plans for expanding the annual tour. The Molly French Garden Club will have charge of the Information Booth and this year, to enable out of town visitors to tour the city along the route specified by the tour map, booths will be set up at both entrances to the city; one at the Junior High School and the other at the east entrance to the city, the place to be announced later. Last year visitors entering the city from the east had some difficulty in locating the arrow - marked tour route.

The YCB, under the leadership of the Rev. Justin Monaghan, will operate a snocone, popcorn and cotton candy concession stand. All of the acitvity will take place at the Rolwing Park and the Marshall lots on East Cypress street, where the tour will end. Approximately 50 artists have accepted invitations to participate in the clothesline art show. The Auxiliary Wives will have pony rides for children this year. The Boy Scouts will have a hamburger and hot dog concession and the Mississippi County Historical Society will have a bake sale concession.

The pony - pulling contest will be held again this year under the sponsorship of Charlie Tinsley. The date and time for this event will be announced later.

Antique Car Clubs from all over the district have signified their intention to lead the tour through the city, ending at the Rolwing Park where the cars will remain parked throughout the afternoon Sunday on display.

Another attraction this year will be a dog show which will feature dogs of all varieties. The judging on the dog show will not be by pedigree but by such different categories as the largest dog, the smallest dog, the dog with the longest tail, the shortest hair, the longest hair etc.

Dr. Nicholas stated that the committee has many other entertainers tentatively scheduled and they will be announced as soon as they are confirmed.

There will be entertainment throughout the afternoon and it is hoped that the crowds will plan to stay at the park and eat their lunch there.

Last year Charleston hosted approximately 3,000 visitors for the annual tour and, Dr. Nicholas stated, the committee feels that the announcement of the dates of the tour at this time will avoid conflicting engagements.

Women's news

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) -- Housewives boiling mad over what they charged was luke -warm water service brought corroded cooking utensils and fouled humidfiers Monday to a state hearing on a rate increase requested by the Missouri Cities Water Co. of Mexico, Mo.

About 100 anti - increase customers of the water company attended the Missouri Public Service Commission hearing, which continues today.

Despite the presentations of the housewives, engineer J.C. Stephens of Columbia testified the mineral level in the company's water is well below the maximum allowed by the State Division of Health.

In answer to opponents, a company official testified that Missouri Cities has spent $1.2 million over the past three years to provide an adequate water supply.

The Public Service Commission rejected a rate increase application a year ago. Under the present application, the company would receive an additional $51,00 a year in water revenue and $46,000 a year from sewer service.

Self-protection, Working Girls

Dear Ann Landers: I am a working girl who lives alone. Like many other such girls I am deeply concerned about the increase in muggings, assaults, rapes, burglaries, and murders. A friend who lives in California sent me an informative mailing which was put out by Bruce Eastley, Deputy Marshall of Sacramento County. I have condensed the pieces and hope you consider it worth printing. I know of no better way to get this information before the eyes of millions of women.

"Criminal activity is based on two factors. First, the desire to commit a crime. Second, the opportunity. Most of us can do very little about a criminal's desire. Opportunity, however, can be eliminated or dimished if one is alert and cautious. People who are not alert and cautious set themselves up as victims. Here are some practical suggestions that wil reduce the single woman's chances for being victimized:

"When you leave your apartment or home and plan to return after dark, leave a light burning. Darkness is an advertisement that no one is at home. If you leave for dinner, turn on the TV or stereo. Electricity is cheap compared to a break-in.

"Never leave a key under a doormat, over the doorway or in the mailbox. An astonishing number of homes have been burglarized by amateurs who didn't have to break in. They knew where to find the key.

"If you are going on vacation, discontinue the milk and newspaper deliveries. Ask a friend to pick up your mail. Arrange to have the lawn kept up.

"Unless you are proficient at using a gun it is best NOT to have one. Any weapon can be used against you by an assailant. Chances are good that he is far more experienced with guns than you are. Moreover, if he sees your gun he may use his. More victims are shot by intruders than the other way around." ----Daily Reader

Dear Daily: Thank you for sharing this information with my readers. You can be sure millions of women are smarter now than before they read it.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope my letter helps others who have the same sickness I am not getting over. It started as a small case of suspicion, then it grew to insane jealousy. Finally I became so distrustful of my wife that I began to imagine all sorts of things. It got so bad I couldn't find a minute's peace. I found myself checking the mileage on her car, looking for tread marks in the driveway, rummaging through the garbage for letters or notes. I measured the liquor in the bottles and kept records. I was up every night listening for the back door to open. I was sure my wife was entertaining a lover while I slept.

What makes all this so hideous is that my wife is a fine person. I had no reason to doubt her. Three months ago she gave me a choice -- either pack up and get out of the house or go to a psychiatrist. She said my accusations and continual checking were turning her into a nervous wreck.

Well, Ann, I'm in therapy now and getting well. I feel like the luckiest man alive. What makes it so frightening is that my crazy ideas seemed logical at the time. There must be others who are suffering from this same sickness, so please print this letter for them. It might help. ----Anytown, U.S.A.

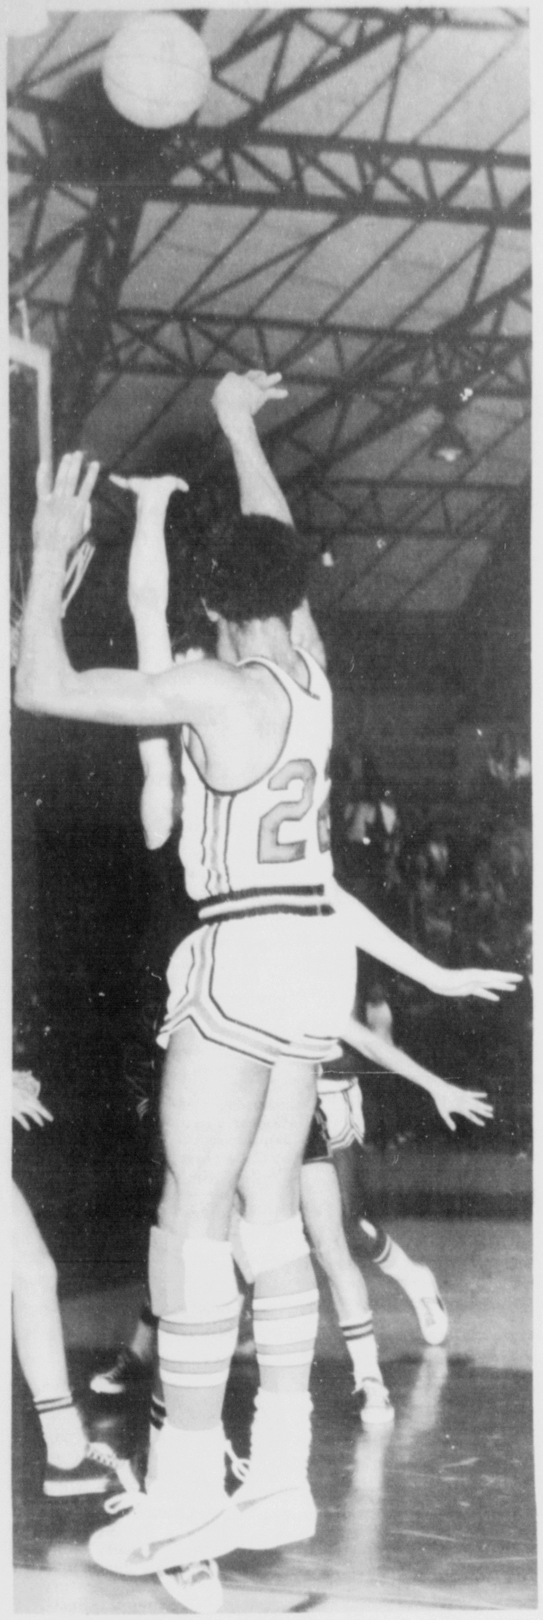
King Leads Comeback



UNDREA WEST, (22) shows the form he used in popping in 19 points to share high game honors with Lee King and lead the SHS Bulldog victory (65—59) over Cape Girardeau Central.

Sikeston fans never should have worried about Friday night's big basketball game with Cape Girardeau Central --- After all -- Lee king, who seemingly thrives on pressure, is still around.

The 5-11 SHS junior guard was at his season's best. He rallied coach N. P. McDaniel's Bulldogs to a 65-59 triumph over the Cape high school Tigers.

The win maintained Sikeston's hold on second place in the SEMO conference and boasted its season mark to 9-8 and 4-1 in the league.

It was his second half scoring leadership, especially his eight points in the fourth quarter, that turned the tables on the highly favored visitors, who led most of the game and held as much as a 12-point advantage at time.

King wasn't the sole hero of the come- from-behind victory. Undra West contributed 19 points, 13 in the second half, while Sam Tucker and Herman Prince headed the rebounding.

"It was an all out team effort, " Coach McDaniel noted. "we've come a long way since Christmas."

The Bulldog cagers struggled in the first half, falling back, 20-15, in the opening eight minutes. They had trouble with the Bengals' zone press and 1-3-1 zone defense, not to mention combating the height advantage thee visitors possessed.

It wasn't until the final eight minutes that the Dogs began to click. Cape seemed to tire under the early pace it had set and the Dogs took full advantage of the situation, waltzing through the press and speeding down floor for fast break buckets that turned the table along with the great rebounding effort put forth by Tucker and Prince.

SHS began to press in the second half and quickly began to run down the visitors.

Cape managed only two field goals and one free throw in that final quarter. The Dogs put in seven two pointers and five charity shots.

Two games remain on the Big Red schedule testing Poplar Bluff Wednesday and rounding out the season action against Perryville Friday night.

B- GAME CAPE CENTRAL

The Bengals roared ahead in the fourth to edge the SHS B team, 55-40, and drop Coach Nickel's cagers toward the cellar of the SEMO conference standings. Cape took a 17-6 advantage in the final period to post the win.

David Daye had 20 points to head the Tigers victory while John Crouthers totaled 15 to head the SHS offense.

LEE KING (white uniform) displays the form that got him 19 points in Tuesday night's 65—59 Sikeston victory over Cape Girardeau Central. King led a big second half surge in the SEMO conference clash.

Pierce Leads Charleston Win

ORAN——Charleston used a last quarter blitz to run away from the Eagles here Friday night, 82—56.

Coach David Bone's Oran Eagles came off a tough game Thursday night with the Parma Pirates to take on the highly rated Bluejays, but were unable to stay with the fast runners from Charleston, but few teams have been able to this year.

Oran made a game of it for three quarters as Charleston led 22—20 after the first quarter. The Bluejays widened their lead in the second period to five points to lead 38—33 at halftime. Oran vainly tried to stay with the Bluejays in the third period with Charleston taking a 54—46 lead. The

The fourth period was the clincher as Charleston poured it on to the tune of 28—10 to take the victory and up their record to 22—1 for the season.

Otis Burley led the Eagles with 19 points, Mike LeGrand had 16.

Eric Pierce popped 25 for the Bluejays. Usually high scoring Henry Hall was held to 11 by the Eagles tough defense.

Charleston ran their B team record to 31-0 with a easy 79-35 win over the junior Eagles. Doug Roberts had 12 for the Eagles and Gene Rogers hit 16 for the Bluejays.

Oran plays in the Bell City Regional Feb. 22.

Raiders Seeded First

Poplar Bluff has been seeded No 1 in the Region 16 (Missouri) eastern division junior college basketball tournament which will be played March 3-6 at Florissant Valley Community College.

Three Rivers, 16-8 for the season, has clinched the title in the Missouri Junior College Athletic Conference with a 7-2 mark. It has one league game remaining.

Mineral Areal College of Flat River was seeded second and Forest Park Community College and Meramec Community College, the defending eastern division champion, share the No. 3 seed.

In first-round games March 3, Three Rivers will meet East Central College of Union and Meramec will play Jefferson College of Hillsboro.

In games March 4, Mineral Area will face St. Louis Baptist and Forest Park will play Florissant Valley Community College.

The eastern division winner and western division champion will play a best-of-three series for the Region 16 title.

Cardinals Slip Past Bell City

BELL CITY———The Woodland Cardinals won a narrow basketball victory over the Cubs Friday night 59—57.

The game was closely played in four quarters. Neither team was able to build up a big lead.

Bell City led at the half, 26—24. Woodland won the game in the third period as it overcame a two-point lead to take a seven-point lead. Bell City tried to come back in the final but it wasn't enough. Time ran out.

Woodland enters the Fredericktown regional.

VALLE BOWS

STE. GENEVIEVE——In a game that will be replayed at Fredericktown Monday night the Dragons of Ste. Geneivieve downed the Warriors of Valle in a 51 to 50 upset. Both squads will meet again Monday night in first round action of the Fredericktown Regional at 6 p.m.

This was the fifth victory of the season for the Dragons. They used a pressure defense to force the Valle squad into floor mistakes then capitalized on their opportunities.

Valle jumped to a 14 to 9 first quarter bulge and lengthened it in the second quarter going into the half with a 26 to 20 margin.

The last half proved to be the downfall of the Warriors. The Dragons came out on fire. Slowly the Ste. Geneivieve squad whittled on the Valle lead until it claimed the victory with a strong fourth quarter, which netted it 19 points while hold the Warriors to 14.

Scoring in double figures for the Dragons were Ron Bollinger with 13 and Mike Williams with 19 points. Valle was led by the 21 points of Mike Hess and the 12 of Mark Winters.

Junior varsity action was a double victory for Ste. Geneiveve as the Dragons downed Valle 52 to 47 in another close contest.

WHITSON'S CAGERS WIN

BIRCH TREE——Stan Whitson's Bulldogs won a squeaker from the Ellington Whippets Friday night, 68—66.

The Bulldogs played their last game at Birch Tree. The school consolidates with Mountain View next year. The fans couldn't have asked for a more thrilling game to close out the season and the last home game.

Both teams shot well in the first quarter with the Bulldogs getting 23—21 for the Whippets. The second was played on even terms, 17—17. The third and fourth quarters were played with each team taking a two-point advantage in each period. The two-point margin was taken in the first period to give Birch Tree the win.

Rick Parker hit 25 for the Whippets. Marshall Chowning hit 18 for the Bulldogs.

Pewitt hit 26 to lead the Whippets B team to victory 46—33. Holden has 12 for the junior Bulldogs.

Both teams enter regionals next week. Birch Tree goes to Mrytle and Ellington to Fredericktown.

LESTERVILLE LOSES FOURTH

SOUTH IRON——Behind the strong shooting of Natchel with 17 points and Adams with 14 the South Iron Panthers claimed their 15th basketball victory of the season with a 56—51 trouncing of the Lesterville Bearcats.

The first three quarters of play were all South Iron as the Panthers jumped to an 8 to 7 first quarter lead then took a 23 to 15 edge at halftime intermission.

The third quarter was South Iron as the Panthers increased their lead by two points and at the start of the last quarter of play South Iron led 35 to 25.

The fourth quarter saw both quintets open up their offenses as a total of 47 points were scored, twenty-one of them went to South Iron and Lesterville netted 26.

Lesterville was led by the 17 points of Mike Gregory. The Bearcats record now stands at 19 and 4.

Junior varsity action saw South Iron take double victories as the Panthers downed the Bearcats 45 to 29.

SATURDAY'S SCHEDULE

BELL CITY S REGIONAL (AT BELL CITY)
Leopold vs. Bell City (7:00)
Oak Ridge vs. St. Vincent (8:30)

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)— Bert Greene of the United States shot a five-under-par 67 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 277 to win the Lagartos International Open Golf Tournament.

Green cruised in two strokes over runnerup Rogelio Gonzalez of Columbia, who had a 71 for a 279.

Veteran Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, who was the firstround leader, wound up third witt a 280 after carding a 72 Sunday.

Hayti Eludes Upset

HAYTI-- The first basketball loss of the season for Coach Bill Beck's Indians almost came at their homecoming. They had to post strong second and third quarters to remain in the contest then the game wasn't a shoo -in. Hayti won it 68 to 67 in one overtime to finish the regular season 24-0.

The Lilbourn Panthers seeded third in the Gideon regional made some of their future opponents sit up and take notice as the Panthers seemed to be more capable of withstanding pressure in games toward the end of the season and have strengthened for the regional.

Playing the highly rated Hayti squad basket for basket Lilbourn battled Hayti to a 18 to 18 first quarter deadlock.

In the second quarter Hayti began to pull slowly away from the Panthers, taking a 31 to 29 bulge at the half.

Coach Beck must have given his players extra incentive. They strengthened their mastery over the Panthers and increased their lead to seven points, taking a 50 to 43 bulge into the fourth quarter.

The Panthers were not about to give up without more of a battle and fought back to send the game into overtime. The score was knotted 61 to 61 at the close of regular play. In the final three minutes of overtime, Hayti outscored Lilbourn 7 to 6, thus earning the right to take home a rather shaky 68 to 67 victory.

This was the 24th victory of the season for Hayti. It is one of the elite in Missouri undefeated through regular season play.

Monday Hayti, seeded first in the Gideon M regional, puts its unblemished record on the line against Portageville in its first round clash at 5:30. Lilbourn, seeded third in the same tourney at Hayti, may get another shot at Hayti in the finals, but first it has to win quarter - final and semi - final games. In first round action Lilbourn drew a bye.

Braves Topple Rebs, 73-71

SCOTT CENTRAL — Scott Central, a team seeded first in the Bell City regional, and Richland, seeded number one in the Bloomfield regional clashed in a classic battle Friday night.- Scott Central took the homecoming victory 73 to 71 in an overtime period.

The Richland Rebels, playing without ace scorer and rebounder John Sims fell behind in the first quarter of play 13 to 9 and appeared to be headed for a route as they went into half time trailing 26 to 19.

The Rebesl, however, were not through for the night. They came out in the third quarter to drill 31 points play while holding the Braves to 22. The Rebels led at the end of third period, 50 to 48.

In the last frame Scott Central outscored the Rebels 21 to 19 to send the game into overtime. With 20 seconds showing on the clock Rebel guard Norman Cole dribbled on his end of the court waiting for the good shot but the good shot didn't come and a desperation shot failed and the game was tied 69-69 at the close of regulation play. The overtime was close with Scott Central taking gaining the advantage with a 4 to 2 mark in overtime action to record the victory. Scoring the winning points for Scott Central in the overtime period were Denny Alcorn and former Richland ballplayer David Pobst with two points each in the overtime.

The scoring pace of the Scott Central Braves was set by Denny Alcorn with 21, John Fort with 18 and David Pobst, with 14. All of Pobst's points came in the second half.

Richland was led by the 28 points of Norman Cole, who also claimed high game scoring honors and Steve Kinder and Dennis Sims who netted 15 and 14 points respectively.

Next week both squads place their number one seeds on the line in tournament action.

The junior varsity contest was claimed by Scott Central also with a 66 to 49 victory over the JV Rebels. Thus the new homcoming queen, Norma Peet regined over a perfect night as both Scott Central teams claimed homcoming honors.

Karen Mainord

Eagles Honor Queen

EAST PRAIRIE——Miss Karen Mainord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Mainord and a senior in the East Prairie high school, was crowned basketball homecoming queen Thursday night between games of the Illmo-Scott City Rams and the Eagles.

The Eagles defeated the Rams 86 to 71 in the A game and lost the B contest, 68-66.

Lesley Orr and Criag Bennett were the crown and gift bearers.

Miss Mainord has been a majorette for the Marching Eagles — three years and is a member of the band and choir. She plans to attend Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau next fall.

Parents of basketball players and cheerleaders were guests Thursday night and were introduced during the halftime.

Dogs Surprise Lions

GIDEON — The Gideon Bulldogs got the Lions of Senath - Hornersville on their home court and burnt the basketball nets for a total of 61 points while holding the visiting squad to 55 markers recording a big upset and picked up some needed momentum for next week's M Tourney.

The Bulldogs led all the way and were threatened only once in the contest that coming in the third quarter when the Lions made their last bid for the victory outscoring them in that quarter, 17 to 14. The game started out the way it ended with Gideon leading 12 to 8 at the close of the first quarter.

The second quarter was all Giedon. The Bulldogs seemed headed for a sure rout over the Lions. The Bulldogs logged 15 points in their second frame while Senath was only able to hit 11.

The half was 27 to 19 in favor of the Bulldogs.

Third quarter action saw the Lions made a charge at the eight - point Bulldog lead but their effort only shaved three points from the lead and Senath went into the fourth quarter trailing five points, 41 to 36. Last quarter of play was the doom of the Lions. They netted 19 points in a fantastic scoring barrage.

The Bulldogs were not to be outdone and pumped in 20 points to their column. The Gideon scoring pace was set by Ricky Whitehead and Mike Lester, who netted 18 points each. The Senath -H'ville squad was paced by the scoring of sophomore Herman Brown with 21.

Next week when the Gideon regional starts these squads may both have a shot at one another again as Senath is seeded 5th and Gideon is seeded 8th. Both teams drew first round byes.

In junior varsity action Senath at least recorded one victory, a 38 to 20 decision over the JV Bulldogs.

Fields Leads TRJC

POPLAR BLUFF — Three Rivers Junior College raced to its 16th victory of the season handing the visiting cagers, Paducah Community College, a 111 to 95 setback Thursday.

Coach Bess, TRJC head coach, said he was proud and that the game was an all out team effort of the Raiders.

Earlier this season the Raiders lost to the Paducah cagers in Paducah, 101 to 83, and this game was sweet revenge.

In the first meeting Roy Fields, the big workhorse for the Raiders was not playing. Roy was possibly the deciding factor in the TRJC victory as the big man scored 26 points and grabbed 20 rebounds.

Trailing most of the first half Three Rivers managed to tie the game. The score was knotted 46 to 46 at the half.

Coach Bess must have fired up his squad. The Raiders literally exploded in the second half, pumping in 65 points in the last half while the Paducah quintet was only able to manage 49.

Leading the way for the Raiders was a trio of 20 point totals headed by Roy fields with 26 points and 20 rebounds, Larry Lawerence with 20 markers, and Leonard Bishop's 20. John Johnson added 14 points and 10 rebounds and Paul Hale Contributed 11.

TRJC seemed to be sharpening up its guns for the region 16 tourney to be played March 3-6 at Florissant Valley Community College. Three Rivers has clinced their conference witha 7-2 mark and has one league game remaining.

The Raiders are seeded number one in this affair.

This Saturday TRJC travels to Florrisant Valley Community College for what could be a rough game. The Paducah squad were paced by Burfor with 26 and Hendrix with 24 points.

Sophomores Lead RHS

RISCO -- The Golden tigers of Coach Randy Benson flexed their muscles for the Bell City regional with a sound 83 to 55 basketball triumph over the Cooter Wildcats Friday night.

It seems as if the winning streak of Coach Bensons' Tigers coincides with the development of his fantastic sophomores, Welton Bates, Phil Swiney and Randy Stobaugh.

Risco led throughout the encounter but the decisive element in its victory was a full court press in the second quarter that saw the Tigers outscore the Wildcats, 23 to 7.

From the second quarter on Cooter was fighting a losing battle as the Risco five were determined to break .500 ball before entering the Bell City regional in which they are seeded fourth and face Southland in first round action Monday at 8:30 p.m. at Holcomb.

Setting the scoring pace for the Risco Tigers was Elton Bates with 17 and John Bunting with 21, also teammate Randy Terry with 16 points. Cooter was led by the 19 points of Lynn.

In the junior varsity tilt Cooter won 53 to 47.

Portageville Tops DC-7

PORTAGEVILLE -- Coach Bob Kelso's Bulldogs won a big victory here Friday night over the Delta C-7 Chargers, 58-51.

Delta C-7 had just recently played the giant killer by knocking off highly favored Lilbourn in a regular season game. Delta C-7 took the first period 14-12 as neither team was able to gain any headway over the other. The Chargers widened their margin in the second quarter to take a 29-23 halftime lead.

Portageville really came on strong in the third period as they took a 19-9 advantage. This quarter is what killed the Delta C-7 effort as they were never able to overcome the lead. Portageville now stands at 5-12 for the season.

Thomas Minnis was high for the Bulldogs with 18. Paul Scott led the Chargers with 22.

Delta C-7 took the B game 56 -42 with Young scoring 18. Paul Meadows hit 16 for the junior Bulldogs.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Patriots announced Sunday their season ticket sale had gone over the 33,000 mark for the 1971 National Football League campaign.

Regional Tipoff Tonight

BELL CITY——Missouri's single elimination state high school basketball tournament gets its start in Class S tonight at Bell City, where two games are on tap to begin a long week of elimination, which will send one team into the state tournament bracket a week from Monday night.

Southeast Missouri's Class S and M regional action gets into full swing Monday night with action set at each of the three M sites and four S regionals.

The four schools, which will compete in opening round games, are among the 220 S teams across the state which will vie for the championship, which will be decided at the Multi—Purpose Building on the University of Missouri campus at Rolla.

Because of distance problems several regionals are split with first and second round games at separate sites.

That's the case at Bell City, where part of its first and seond round action will be at Holcomb with the semi-finals and finals set on the Cubs' hardwoods. The final four teams, two from each site will converge at Bell City for the final rounds with the eventual champion advancing to first round state action at Poplar Bluff a week from Monday.

Tipping things off tonight will be nonseeded quintets vieing to enter the Bell City bracket, which has the brunt of the 18 teams scheduled at its site. Leopold and Bell City tangle in the opener and Oak Ridge goes against St. Vincent in the nightcap.

The basketball will really start flying and the nets swaying Monday when action picks up, including games at each of the district's M and S regional sites.

A 17-game schedule is set Monday and a 10-game card on tap for Tuesday in first round action. Two-hundred and nine teams will be compete across the state for the M honors, with 35 of those in the SEMO district.

Class M competition will wind up at Brewer Field House in Columbia two weeks from tonight. Hermann is the defending champ and is expected to be among the four finalists which converge in Tiger Town.

Raytown South finished with 26 straight victories to capture the class L state basketball championship. New Haven won its fifth Class S championship since 1967, and Hermann became the 12 unbeaten state champion in Missouri history with a triumph in the class M tournament. There were the highlights of the 1970 basketball tournament, which were played at three different sites.

Raytown South defeated Kansas City Rockhurst 68—65, in overtime for the Class L state title. It was the first all—Kansas City final since 1930 when KC Central defeated KC East, 13—11. Hermann finished 33—0 and won the class M title with a 42—36 victory over St. Louis Lutheran South, a 65—60 winner over Southeast Missouri Representative Dexter, playing before 5,500 fans at the University of Missouri Brewer Fieldhouse.

New Haven, a quarterfinal round victor (73—70) over SEMO's Matthews Pirates, won the class S title with a 79—69 triumph over Jameson in a game played at the University of Missouri campus at Rolla.

The victories by New Haven and Hermann marked the first time in state history that two teams from the same conference had won respective state championships. The two teams are only 15 miles apart. Hermann had finished as the third place team in M for the 1968-69 season.

Cape Girardeau Central lost in first round L action 74—72 to Herculaneum, who bowed in quarterfinal round play to Lindbergh, 77—54.

Matthews won over Van Buren 70—62 in first round S action last season and Dexter topped New Madrid 50—47 in first round play.

The amateur prognosticator missed on some big ones for the last time during the basketball regular season but still came out with 8—11 for 72 per cent.

The three missed were big ones so we can be excused. Not many people could have guessed the outcome.

We ended up with 222 out of 258 calls so we must know a little about the game.

It has been a great season for the fans and the players. By the end of next week the season will have closed for most of the teams. Even if they didn't win they have had fun playing the game.

We'll see you next season and perhaps see some of you at the regionals.

Mustangs Struggle

CLARKTON———North Pemiscot took a 65—57 win over the Reindeer here Friday night.

The Mustangs ran up an early lead, 15—11, after the first quarter and took a 33—26 lead into the dressing room at the half.

Clarkton used the press to fight back and tie the game 50—50 at the end of the third period.

It looked as if the Reindeer were going to pull off an upset, but it never materialized as North Pemiscot pulled ahead with 2:30 left and took the victory.

Bobby McColloch hit 12 points to lead the Mustangs to victory. Phil DeLong scored 22 for Clarkton.

North Pemiscot is 19—6 for the season.

Clarkton is 1—19. The Reindeer have lost 12 of those games by eight points or less. Clarkton plays Matthews in the Holcomb Regional Feb. 23.

North Pemiscot won the junior contest 57—38 Cockrell hit 17, Gooden 18, John Maddox hit 13 for Clarkton.

Fungicide Ban Review Sought

WASHINGTON (KAP) — The Supreme Court has been asked to review a case involving authority of federal officials to ban a seed-treating compound containing mercury.

A committee for an area youth fair met Monday, at the PCA office. From left Dave Kelley, area livestock specialist, Ken Williams, Sikeston PCA, Elliot Rafferty, Charleston, Mrs. Jewell Moore, Oran, Mrs. Mark Rowling, Charleston, Mrs. Paul Cummings, Risco, Bill Purnell, Charleston. Standing, Carroll Montgomery, New Madrid, and Peter Myers. This committee plans to develop a fair in Sikeston in August.

The review was asked by two firms which manufacture and distribute several fungicides, known as Panogen, used by farmers to treat seed grain to control fungus diseases.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin and other USDA officials have been named defendants since they, at the time, were charged with enforcing the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. Enforcement of this act later was transferred to the new Environmental Protection Agency.

Hardin canceled registration of the fungicide Feb. 18, 1970, after a tragedy at Alamagordo, N.M., in which several persons suffered injuries.

In the fall of 1969 a hog raiser at Alamogordo fed to 17 hogs some waste grain products contaminated with screenings from seed which had been treated with a fungicide containing mercury.

When one of the hogs became ills, the farmer butchered it. Members of the hog raiser's family ate the pork and became ill; three suffered injury from mercury poisoning.

Hardin canceled registration of Panogen, which in effect banned its distribution and sale.

Nor-Am Agricultural Products, Inc., and Morton International, Inc., which manufacture and distribute Panogen, filed suit to enjoin Hardin from enforcing his order. They won their case in U.S. District Court in the Northern District of Illinois but subsequently lost in the appeals court in Chicago which, on a 4-2 division, reversed the lower court and set aside the injunction.

Asking a Supreme Court review, the two companies contend the District Court had correctly held that they would suffer irreparable injury under Hardin's order. The firms placed their loss at $40,000 a day.

They argued that Panogen has been used as a fungicide since 1949, had benefitted many farmers and, with the possible exception of the Alamagordo case, had not caused permanent injury to anyone.

They said the products were properly labeled and carried prominent warnings that they contained poison, should not be swallowed or inhaled and that seed treated with the gungicide should not be used for feed, food or oil.

86 Participate In Program of Insect Control

PORTAGEVILLE — Eighty-six Missouri Bootheel farmers participated in the 1970 cotton insect scouting program supervised by Area Extension Agriculturist W. F. James. Most of these farmers have been in the program since its beginning 15 years ago.

Last year more than one third of the 11,103 scouted acres needed spraying for insect control. The weekly reports made by seven scouts during last year's program showed insects present in all scouted fields. The numbers of harmful insects present occurred only in a few fields.

College students from the cotton producing counties are employed and trained by the supervisor and assigned to groups of farmers in a particular area.

Applications for participating in the program are available at cotton gins and at University of Missouri Extension Centers in Kennett, Caruthersville, New Madrid, Charleston, Benton, Bloomfield and Delta Center, Portageville.

Time to Knock Pests Out of Pecan Orchard

PORTAGEVILLE—The obscure scale, a tiny slow moving insect that sucks the sap [illegible] trees, cuts the yield and quality of pecans at harvest time.

Now, while trees are dormant, is the time to get set to knock these pests out of the pecan orchard. The nature of scale insects is so peculiar that they may not even be recognized [illegible] They hatch from eggs in the spring and summer and are at this point called crawlers. These crawlers move about for a short time, settle down, insert their beaks into the bark and begin to suck sap from the tree. They form a hard covering over their bodies and never work again.

The greatest injury comes from the gradual killing of branches less than 3 inches in diameter. The slow progressive killing of branches reduces the number of fruiting shoots and weakens the tree, making it subject to attack by other insects and diseases. While lowered yields and dead limbs are the first symptoms, with heavy infestations and invasion by other insects and diseases the final result may be the death of the tree.

All scale insects can be controlled. The surest and probably the least expensive is by applying a dormant oil. If this is to be done this year it should be applied as soon as possible on a sunny day with temperatures above freezing. This oil should be mixed to a 3% solution with water and applied to the trees with a high pressure sprayer (400—600 lbs. per square inch) that will deliver 20 to 30 gallons or more per minute. Complete coverage is essential if good control is to be accomplished!! Spray the trees a section or limb at a time and don't forget, a few branches missed will mean reinfestation of the entire tree. This spray should not be applied after buds begin to show green. A good job should eradicate the scale insects from the orchard in not more than two seasons.

Pig Disposal Not An Easy Maneuver

Archie V. McCoy, a farmer on route one, has had his share in raising and disposing of pigs in a depressed market.

Archie said: "if I can't sell them, I'll give them away," and that's just what he did, "but I soon found out no one would come and get them. I had nine to dispose of."

He then decided to try another chance at selling them. The farmer said: "I did do a little better, at least I received enough money to pay for the gas I was out to move them out of the barn.

"This was not the end of my dealings. The next morning I thought my work was over, but when I went to the barn, I heard a commotion, and looked like a hundred little pigs — 23 were new additions, with the two I had left the day before, all from two sows."

How does one account for the sudden increase is still somewhat of a shock to McCoy. His last comment was "anyone who wishes for pigs by the dozens notify me at Archie's Wholesale Pigs."

On The Fence Row

By Tom Brown

BLOOMFIELD—Crop rotation is an important crop production practice in cropping systems commonly found in our area. Relatively little emphasis has been devoted to rotation during recent years. Observations and experiences of recent years indicate that it would pay farmers to increase their use of rotation in the cropping systems involving cotton, corn, and soybeans commonly found in this area, however.

Generally speaking, crop rotation would probably pay the highest dividend on soybeans. That diseases take a heavy toll of soybean profits indicated by the following summary showing losses that might be expected from various soybean diseases which commonly occur in this area: Bacterial Pustule, 3.25 percent; Bacterial Blight, 3.00 percent; Phytophthora Root Rot, 3.00 percent; Brown Stem Rot, 2.75 percent; Bud Blight, 1.75 percent; Bud and Stem Blight, 1.50 percent; Downy Mildew, 1.50 percent; Stem Canker, 1.00 percent; Brown Spot, 1.00 percent; and Purple Seed Stain, 0.25 percent.

Crop rotation is an important practice in the prevention and control of soybean diseases. A number of these diseases live from one crop season to another in crop residues. When we grown soybeans on the same field year after year, the disease infestation continues to build up. Rotating beans with un-related crops will stop this build-up and thereby help to get rid of or reduce disease infestations.

The average bean yield produced in Hancock County, N.C. in 1959 was 17.0 bushels per acre. As results indicate, rotating land from soybeans to a non-host crop for two to three years will facilitate the production of near normal soybean yields on cyst nematode infested land. Likewise, it will assist in the prevention of a build-up in cyst nematode infestation.

A third benefit of crop rotation in soybean production is that it facilitates more efficient fertilization of soybeans. Results of research and actual farm experience has shown that returns are significantly higher from a rotation of soybeans with other crops including cotton, corn, and small grain in which case the other crops are well fertilized and followed by soybeans to which no fertilizer is applied compared to the production of soybeans on the same land every year with the fertilizer applied directly to the soybeans. Research results also indicate that bean yields can also be built up significantly higher where the rotation plans is followed compared to the plan of producing soybeans every year.

Disease also take a heavy toll of cotton profits as indicated by the results of a Cotton Disease Council survey of diseases affecting the cotton crop throughout the Cotton Belt and extent of the loss caused by each as follows: seedling diseases, 25 percent; Bacterial Blight, 14 percent; Root Knot Nematode, 10 percent; Boll Rot, 10 percent; Fusarium Wilt, 8 percent; Root Rot, 7 percent; Anthracnose Boll Rot and Verticillium Wilt, 3 percent; and Accochyta Blight, 1 percent. Just as in the case with soybeans, many of the diseases live from one season to another on the crop residues in the soil. Unless cotton is rotated with other crops the disease infestation continues to build up and losses continue to increase. Crop rotation will help to prevent or control a number of these diseases including Fusariun Wilt, Verticillium Wilt, Bacterial Blight, Ascochyta Blight, Root Rot, Boll Rot, and Root Knot Nematodes.

Generally speaking, crop rotation has less effect in reducing corn diseases than those of cotton or soybeans. It has been suggested as a control measure for certain corn diseases, however, disregarding any benefit rotation may be to corn, however, it is still important that corn by included in the rotation program to facilitate the increased use of this practice for soybeans and cotton.

In spite of the increase of crop diseases including particularly those of soybeans and cotton, many farmers do not recognize the nature and extent of damage caused by them. Consequently, the use of crop rotation to stop the increased build-up and resulting damages caused by these diseases would seem to be very important.

Bayless Taylor Heads Fish Farmers

DEXTER — The Southeast Missouri Fish Farmers Association met Tuesday night and adopted their constitution, set dues schedules, and elected officers.

The association will attempt to strengthen fish farmers' position in buying and selling.

Bayless Taylor, Dexter, was selected president.

Other officers are Ted Streete, Caruthersville, vice president; Bill Flowers, Dexter, secretary; and A. C. Story, Wolf Island, treasurer.

About 40 fish farmers attended the meeting in the Civic Center.

Bob Smith of the Conservation Commission in Jefferson City told of new traps for muskrats, beavers and turtles.

Smith explained new trapping regulations that might affect fish farmers.

Membership fees in the organization were set at $10 per year. It plans to hold at least two meetings each year.

Crop Production To Be Discussed

GRAY RIDGE—A farm meeting will be held in the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Center Monday beginning at 7 p.m. This is the third of four meetings sponsored by the DAEOC and the university extension center for the benefit of farmers.

Recommendations of the University of Missouri college of agriculture pertaining to cotton, corn and grain sorghum production will be discussed. Tom Brown, area agronomy specialist, will discuss the subjects.

Set Asides for Wheat, Cotton Established

BENTON—Fletcher Withrow, chairman of the Scott County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service Committee, announced the 1971 crop set-aside of 20 percent for feed grain and cotton and 75 per cent for wheat has been established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

These set-aside percentages were announced as tentative earlier this year and were based on preliminary estimates of acreage required for this year's production to meet needs. The preliminary estimates now appear to be satisfactory, Withrow said.

The set-aside program is designed for a market-oriented agriculture. It will give producers more options on what and how much to plant than the former planting requirements. Under the 1971 Feed Grain, Wheat, and Cotton programs, a farmer sets aside his share of the national land diversion required to prevent overproduction -- but he can plant his remaining acres to what ever crop he chooses.

The 20 per cent diversion requirement for feed grain establishes a preliminary payment of 32 cents per bushel for corn and 29 cents per bushel for sorghum times the yield established for the farm on one-half the corn and grain sorghum base. Participants in the feed grain program will be guaranteed a national average of $1.35 a bushel on the production from half their corn base, and $1.24 a bushel ($2.21 a hundredweight) on half their sorghum base.

Producers participating in the cotton program will receive a payment computed by multiplying the support payment rate per pound times the payment yield established for the farm times the acres planted within the base acreage allotment.

Payments to participating cotton and feed grain producers will begin as soon as possible after July 1.

The certificate payment rate for wheat will depend on the final parity price for wheat and the actual market price received during the first five months of the marketing year. The loan level for wheat will be $1.25 per bushel, national average. Producers will get preliminary payments equal to 75 per cent of the estimated face value of the certificate soon after July 1. The remainder will be paid after December 1, 1971.

In 1971, acreage planted to soybeans will not be considered planted to wheat, feed grain, or cotton.

Eight alternate crops may be grown in 1971 on acreage set aside from the production of cotton, feed grain, and wheat. They are guar, sunflower, sesame, castor beans, mustard seed, safflower, crambe, and plantago ovato.

There will be a $10 per acre reduction in the payment due participating farms which plant any of the eight allowable crops on set-aside acreage.

Cotton, feed grain, and wheat producers who wish to qualify for program benefits must sign up to participate during the period March 1 through April 9, at the County ASCS Office.

PETER ROST, New Madrid, took second place irrigated, in the National Corn Growers Association's 1970 national irrigated corn yield contest in Missouri.

Farmers Advised To Have Seed Tested Now

BLOOMFIELD—Seed testing will be a tremendously important practice especially for cotton and soybeans this year, and now is the time to have seed tested for planting this spring.

It is very important that farmers know the quality of their cotton and soybean seed this year. Indications are that good seed of both crops are in short supply, and reports also indicate that the germination of available seed of these crops is low in many cases. Consequently, it is very important that farmers take all possible steps to obtain a good stand of cotton and beans from the first planting. Farmers who have to plant the second time may find that seed with which to do so is not available. For farmers who have their cotton and bean seed, the first step should be to have seed tested for germination if the germination is not already known. Farmers who do not have sufficient seed of these crops should take steps to obtain seed of good germination as soon as possible. A few farmers are thinking about planting cotton seed which is more than one year old. By all means, the germination of this seed should be determined before planting.

A seed test may be obtained free of charge at either the Seed Testing Laboratory, Department of Field Crops, 108 Waters Hall, Columbia, Missouri or the State Seed Testing Laboratory, Department of Agriculture, Jefferson City, Missouri. These laboratories operate on the same schedule, and corn, cotton, soybeans, sorghum, sudan grass, and rice are tested from December 1 to April 1. Obviously, this is a season when the work load is heavy for the laboratories; therefore, a few weeks will be required to test the seed and get the results back to the farmer. Consequently, farmers are advised to send their samples to the laboratory as soon as possible.

It is very important that good seend sample be sent to the laboratory as the results of the test can be no better than the sample tested. Small samples should be taken from different locations and at various depths throughout the seed lot and mixed thoroughly into one composite sample. The composite sample of cotton, corn, soybeans, sorghum, Sudan grass, and rice should consist of one quart of seed. Each sample should be clearly marked as to the name and address of the farmer, the seed lot from which it came, and the kind of test desired. If purity tests are desired, sample submitted must be from reclaimed seed. Trash samples will be test for germination only. Samples should be mailed in a strong container that is not likedly to be broken or torn in the mail.

An MU Guide Sheet pertaining to obtaining seed tests at both laboratories entitled "How to Get Timely Service on Seed Testing" is available upon request at your County University Extension Center.

Projects for Law Enforcement Council Disclosed

Tom Gilmore, Scout County prosecuting Attorney and member of the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council, has announced seven projects adopted by LEAC for 1971.

"A number of expanded projects are being proposed for the new program," he said. One of the difficulties encountered in the past year has been the 60 per cent, 40 per cent ratio of matching funds by which the counties and communities had to come up with at least 40 per cent of the funds to match the federal funds being provided.

"Many of our 5 counties and communities simply don't have the funds to take advantage of the LEAC program. For this reason, the ration of matching federal funds is being modified to a 75 per cent, 25 per cent basis. This new ratio will allow us to provide much needed assistance in some of the poorer area."

Heading the list of projects for 1971 is an improvement project for the Scott County jail.

An improvement of the Charleston police headquarters and jail is another project.

LEAC is considering the possibilities of a criminal investigation service for Scott county.

"We have been hampered in the past in our investigation efforts because we have not had trained men with sufficient time to make complete and detailed investigation of various crimes," Gilmore said. "The men available have simply to many other duties to attend to and have not had proper training to perform complete criminal investigation."

A further expansion of the juvenile program in Scott and Mississippi counties is being investigated.

"The improvement that we have seen from having as assistant juvenile officer has been very gratifying and we feel that if we can continue to provide closer supervision of young people getting in trouble we will eliminate many of these as potential adult offenders," said Gilmore.

Probation and parole services will also continue to receive attention and the final project calls for a public defender project for the 33rd judicial circuit if local funds can be obtained to match the federal funds.

"At present local lawyers are appointed to defend people who do not have money to hire their own attorney," Gilmore said. However, the service to defendants in criminal cases, which is a very important part of out American system of criminal justice, would be better served by having a qualified public defender."

SCENTED BOUQUET

Grow carnations for a scented bouquet. The newer, giant-flowered varieties have blooms almost as large as those you buy from the florist.

And yet, they can be grown from seeds, will bloom quickly and will flower until frost. Of course, you'll have to sow seeds early either indoors or out, but that's good practice anyway.

Probably the largest flowers come from seeds of English Giants. These, once plants are budding, should be disbudded just as the florist does in the greenhouse. All side buds should be nipped off so all the food the plant makes goes into the tip bud. That's how to get huge blooms.

A delightful, fairly new carnation is named Fragrance and seeds are available only in mixed colors.

These plants grow only 12 inches high, have strong enough stems to remain upright and are nice looking, compact plants.

The tiniest carnations, very dwarf and compact, so good for growing in pots, are those named Baby. Only 10 inches high, they have the same double flowers and delicious fragrance as all carnations.

It's the scent, after all, that has endeared carnations to centuries of gardeners.

Area Youth Fair Will Be Held in August

A steering committee has been formed to organize and develop an area youth fair in the Bootheel.

Members of the committee are: Bobby Wrather, CAtron, Bloyce Burch, Matthews, Mrs. Paul Cummins, Risco, Elliot Raffety, Charleston, Mrs. Mark Rolwing, Charleston, Zack Dismukes, East Prairie, Peter Myers, Sikeston, James Beaird, Sikeston, Jewell Moore, Oran, Ken Williams, Sikeston, John Harper, Sikeston.

Myers is chairman with Bobby Wrather, vice chairman and Carroll Montgomery, secretary.

Others will be asked to join the committee.

A date and place for the fair have not been set but plans are to have it in Sikeston in August. Youth in Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties will be invited to participate.

Departments are planned in home economics, crafts, livestock, crops, horticulture, industrial arts and shop and science. Along with Exhibits there will be events such as horse show, dog show and tractor rodeo, 4-H dress revue and share the fun.

At the committee's second meeting in the PCA Building Monday the members agreed to proceed with plans to produce a Fair this year.

Selection of the Board members and committees will be made at a meeting March 2, at the PCA office.

A finance committee will meet Wednesday at the PCA Office.

Myers said that membership on the committees is open to anyone who is willing to help. Interested persons may contact any member of the committee or the University of Missouri extension center in their county.

A deluge of rainfall measuring 2.65 inches at noon today forced Sikestonians to start digging out their boots to wade the flooded sidewalks and streets caused by the downpour.

Two Sikeston brothers, aged 29 and 25, met for the first time recently in Peoria, Ill., and found they "like each other pretty well." That was the comment of Elmer F. McIntosh, 25, when he first met his brother, Earl Eugene Disney, 29, for the first time. Both are sons of Mrs. L.C. Couch of Sikeston. Earl was let out for adoption when he was 20 months old before Elmer was born.

Funeral services for Joseph Marion Bartholomew of Manila, Ark., father of Henry Bartholomew of Sikeston, were conducted Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Savage of Morehouse are parents of a baby girl born at the Delta Community Hospital on the 18th.

Noble J. Nelson, yeoman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Nelson of Route 1, Sikeston recently reported for duty on the staff of the Commander in Chief, U.S. Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Funeral services for Harry Buchhloz, brother of P.H. Buchholz of Sikeston will be held tomorrow.

The Sikeston Bulldogs and the Doniphan Dons won out in the opening night play of the Class A Regional Tourney here at the Armory last night. The Sikeston lads, playing the opener, trounced the Dexter Bearcats, 73-49. The Dons won from the Eagles, 54-40.

Room Search Okayed by Judge

cBy Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Chester's marks in college went to pot, the school officials readily concluded, after investigation, that it was due to "pot." And, suspecting that Chester had more "grass" in his room than on the great plains, they had his room searched.

The search produced practically a bale of marijuana. The result? Chester was suspended from college and he appealed his suspension in court.

"Sneaking around my room was an unconstitutional invasion of my right of privacy," he complained to the judge. "There was no search warrant and thus no warrant to search."

"We run a college," was the answer," and not a drug saloon. As a part of our supervisory responsibility, our regulations reasonable provide for such searches. An education is important," concluded the officials, "and we don't want a single one to go up in smoke."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you reinstate Chester because of an unconstitutional search of his room?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that where there is a reasonable belief upon the part of college authorities that a student is using a dormitory room for illegal purposes or for purposes which could otherwise seriously interfere with campus discipline, the right of the school authorities to search the dormitory room supercedes the student's right of privacy.

Burlison to Spend Saturdays At Charleston

CHARLESTON — Congressman Bill D. Burlison plans to spend Saturdays for the next three months in Charleston, according to Hunt Wellborn, East Prairie.

As a pilot program, from February through May whenever he is in the district, Burlison will spend his Saturdays in Charleston for appointments with Mississippi County constituents.

Wellborn said the Congressman will be glad to talk with local constituents about social security, veterans, military, Federal Housing Administration or other problems with federal agencies.

The Congressman said the press of legislative business in Washington would largely dictate the number of weekends that he can get back to the 10th district during the four - month period.

Burlison will maintain an office and Lloyd Hall will serve as his assistant field secretary during the four - month program.

Burlison said if the local program works well, he may try it in other counties from time to time.

Board Freezes Pay of School Administrators

CHARLESTON — The R-1 board of education has frozen salaries of administrators at their present levels, "pending a decision by the legislature on school financing."

The action was taken Thursday night at the February meeting of the board.

During the meeting, new contracts were approved for the following administrators: CHS Principal Sherrill Summitt; CHS Assistant principal Coy Franklin Junior High Principal Warren Moss; Audio -Visual Director Bill Wills; Federal Programs Coordinator Frank Hudson Administrative Assistant Alvin Cope; Hearnes School Principal Jim Grimes; Assistant principals Fred Gordon and Don Thompson; Kindergarten Supervisor Miss Modena Garwood.

The board postponed action on the contract of Assistant Superintendent Louis Chaney, who told the board he was actively seeking other employment.

Superintendent Tom Wells was not considered by the board, as he has another year remaining on an earlier three - year contract.

Contract discussions took up most of the evening, but among other items of business, the board:

Heard a report from Miss Joan Haines of New Haven, Conn., who spent last week conducting an elementary music workshop. Mss Haines' written report will be forthcoming in two weeks, she told the board.

Heard a complaint from Mrs. Lois Culver and a Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who said they were unhappy over alleged abuses in a "black history" program at the A.D. Simpson School. The parents said some classes at the school were getting distortions in the history they were being taught by two teachers, Mrs. Culver, who acted as spokesman for the three, said she did not object to recognition of legitimate claims of Negroes to mention in American history classes. The board and Superintendent Wells said they would look into the matter to see if the history material was actually being distorted by the teachers in question.

Accepted the resignation of Barbara Kelton as a teacher at the junior high school, and approved the contract of Rosalind Mercer to teach at Anniston for the remainder of this year.

Approved the advertising of bids on Lots 13 and 14 on the school property at Anniston, and also the wooden "home economics building" at Anniston, to be moved from its present location by the purchaser. The notice to bidders is contained on the Public Notice page in today,s newspaper.

Established a deadline of 4 p.m. March 12 for persons who wish to get their names on the ballot for school board in the April 6 election. Board members whose terms expire this year are Mrs. Audley Brown and William W. McNeary.

Voted to allow three persons to attend national education organization meetings.

Mrs. Celeste Hudson will attend a meeting of reading consultants in Washington, D. C.; Miss Modena Garwood will attend the Association for Curriculum Development meeting in St. Louis; and Jim Grimes will attend the Association of Elementary School Principals meeting in Cleveland, Ohio.

Heard a preliminary report on possible uses of $37,000 in federal funds included in the district's final allocation under Title I for the 1970-71 school year. Among the programs mentioned are: Tests for the disadvantaged; audio -visual supplies, equipment, and repair of equipment; payment of fixed charges (social security and retirement) for Title I teachers; instructional materials; and a summer program.

The Prayer from the upper room

We give thanks to God always for you all, constantly mentioning you in our prayers, remembering before our God and Father your work of faith and labor of love and steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ. (I Thessalonians 1:2-3 RSV)

PRAYER: Father of us all we know the most important gift we can give is ourselves. Grant us the grace not to feel offended by the talk of habits of others. Grant us endurance, understanding. and compassion, in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Administrator Now on Job

CHAFFEE — Lark Anderson, 24, of Scott City and formerly of Blytheville, is the new administrator of Chaffee general hospital. He began work Monday succeeding Raymond Mercer.

Anderson and his wife, Becky, are parents of a 20-month -old daughter, Bonnie Leigh. He was formerly in the mortgage loan business in Blytheville.

Anderson is a graduate of the Blytheville high school and holds a bachelor degree in business administration from Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Merchants Informed of Check Law

CHARLESTON — Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. this week announced the start of a campaign to inform Mississippi county merchants of how to handle bad checks.

Banta said his office is mailing instructions to all merchants in the county, along with a form that can be used by the merchant to file a complaint with the prosecutor.

In his letter, Banta insists that his office is not a collection agency, but rather is charged with prosecuting violators of the law. "If you do not want the person who gave you a bad check prosecuted, you should not file a complaint with this office," Banta says.

If criminal charges canbe filed, the prosecutor said, a standard 10-day notice is sent to the maker of an insufficient funds or account closed check. In the case of a "no account" check, charges will be filed immediately in Magistrate Court, Banta said, and in the other two types of cases, the changes are filed at the end of the 10-day notice period.

The prosecutor stresses that it is the duty of the person signing the complaint to appear in court and testify if asked to do so.

Banta says he will not normally accept bad checks for prosecution in the following situations:

(a) If the check is more than 3 months old.

(b) If you cannot determine who in your employ received the check.

(c) If you have agreed to or condoned partial payments.

(d) If you have no identifying information as to who gave you the check.

(e) If the checks was not dated.

(f) If the check has never been presented to the Bank for payment.

If the check was post - dated, if there was an agreement to hold the check for some period of time before presenting it for payment, or if the merchant took it with knowledge that it was no good, then the check does not come within the provision of Missouri bad check laws, Banta said.

This is also true, the prosecutor continued, if the merchant has agreed to accept payment of the check in payments over a period of time.

In concluding his letter,

In concluding his letter, Banta urged merchants to be cautious about accepting checks from persons outside Mississippi County; checks written on banks outside Missouri; and second party checks. Prosecution is difficult, if not impossible, if a bad check was accepted under any of these conditions, the prosecutor said.

School Bonds Sale Arranged

ORAN—The boad of education Tuesday night completed arrangements for the sale of $150,000 in general obligation bonds to finance an addition to the elementary building of the Scott County R-III school district.

Supt. B. T. Sheppard said the bonds will be sold to Perry Adams and Lewis bonding company of Kansas City at an average interest rate of 4.854 per cent. The board expressed satisfaction with the interest rate, he added.

Also attending Tuesday night's meeting was Paul Shawan of Drew and Jablonsky architectural firm of Poplar Bluff. It was agreed the architects would begin final drawings for the improvement. Plans are to call for bids in about six or eight weeks, Sheppard said.

Voters Saturday approved issuance of the bonds to finance the improvement. No tax levy was involved. The adidition wil include four classrooms, a speech room, a remedial reading room and restroom facilities.

TV Censors Gradually Relaxing Moral Taboos

AP Television-Radio Writer

New york 9ap0 - dinah Shore, discussing with Johnny Carson life in televisionland, this week complained mildly that NBC censors had "bleeped"—erased—refer- ences by a guest on her daytime show to an expensive San Francisco restaurant and to a brand of French wine that sells for $15 a bottle.

"I guess they thought they were free plugs," said Dinah. "But when I had quite a discussion with the author of 'The Sensuous Woman,' they never touched a word. Bureau of standards, where were you when I needed you?"

It was an interesting question. Sometimes the viewer wonders if network censors bother to check the exchange on daytime game shows which often are deliberately risque, many times started or egged on by the host.

Actor Forrest Tucker, a guest contestant with his wife on "It's Your Bet" this week, has constantly indulged in locker room quips. At one point Thursday, he surfaced with such a clinical remark that there was a sudden embarrassed stillness in the studio audience and frozen expressions by both his wife and host Dick Gautier.

Television, however, has gradually been shedding restraints. "Hell" and "damn," once automatically erased from tapes, are now more frequent than even the commercial breaks on the late evening talk shows. Frank discussions of sex abound on the daytime shows.

Some of the recent made-forTv movie features and even the series now are explicit in dealing with venereal disease, abortion, illicit relations, perversion and drug abuse.

The educational network recently left a brief nude scene in the movie "Marat-Sade."

Edward G. Robinson, reminiscing about the early days of talking pictures on the educational stations' "The Movie Crazy Years', thursday night recalled that in "Little Caesar" he died while invoking "mother of mercy" because he was not allowed to use the word "God." Today in television, the word is used commonly even when spoken for emphasis and quite without religious implications.

Purest areas of television are the situation comedies—no cuss words, no forbidden subject.

But wasn't it Billy Wilder who said he was looking for the day when they stopped using fourletter words and got back to a three-letter word: wit.

Documents Bare Secret World War II Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill overruled a World War II suggestion by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that Italy be given peace with honor in return for surrender, secret wartime documents have disclosed.

The documents, made public by the State Department Monday, also show:

—Roosevelt was sharply critical of French Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

—The United States suggested Britain cut its tank production and order more American tanks.

—U.S. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson accused the British of being only lukewarm on the planned D-Day invasion of Europe across the English Channel.

The documents show Eisenhower, then commander in chief of Allied Forces, proposed before the allied landing that Italy be promised a peace with honor should she surrender. He made the proposal in a May 17, 1943, letter to the combined chiefs of staff.

Roosevelt and Churchill disagreed, however, and sent a telegram to Eisenhower saying, "Most certainly we cannot tell the Italians that if they cease hostilities they will have a peace with honor. We cannot get away from unconditional surrender."

The documents also contain a letter from Roosevelt to Churchill written May 8, 1943, saying, "I do not know what to do with de Gaulle. Possibly you would like to make him governor of Madagascar."

Roosevelt's letter also accused de Gaulle, later to become president of France, of stirring up trouble in Algiers.

Stolen Cow Butchered On Farm

CHARLESTON — Mississippi County authorities are searching for cattle rustlers who butchered a cow on the Billy G. Brown farm Sunday night.

The animal, weighing about 1,100 pounds, was slaughtered some time during the night. The head and entrails were later found on a road 2½ miles south of East prairie off highway 105.

Three Injured

Three were injured in two Bootheel traffic accidents yesterday and today.

At 10:30 p.m. last night, one mile east of Clarkton on highway 162, a 1963 Chevrolet traveling west, driven by John W. Pulliam, Jr., 19, Kennett, went off the shoulder of the road and struck a bridge rail, the highway patrol said.

Both were taken to Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

At 3:05 a.m. today one-fourth mile north of Steele on highway 61, a 1971 Ford traveling south, driven by John W. Bahr, 21, Chicago, crossed the center line and struck headon a northbound 1969 Greyhound bus driven by James Terrell, 56, Barlow, Ky., the patrol said.

Bahr suffered face cuts and a broken ankle. He was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Disaster Data To Be Distributed In New Madrid

NEW MADRID—The New Madrid county court announced yesterday each family in New Madrid county will receive information on preparing for disasters. Distribution of this official information began Thursday and were mailed to each home in the county.

Through a federal grant from the Department of Defense, the State Disaster Planning and Operations Office has provided the latest emergency information booklet entitled "In Time of Emergency: for distribution to all families.

The program is financed under a Community Shelter Planning contract between the Department of Defense and State Office of Disaster Planning and Operations.

The booklet will give each person the necessary instruction on how to improvise a fallout shelter in their home, in addition to other emergency information on tornadoes, windstorms, fires, and care of injured in the home.

If you do not receive this booklet, you can contact Charles A. Penman, director, Portageville, or telephone 379—5110. The booklet is also available at the University of Missouri Extension office, court house, New Madrid.

Lou Gehrig, first baseman for the New York Yankees, holds the record for having played in the most consecutive games. He played in 2 130 consecutive games.
